Injuries In Roof Cave-In

Attending Lenten Mass; None Killed

BALTIMORE, Md. — (AP) — The roof caved in today on a Roman Catholic church as an estimated 90 persons, most of them children, were attending an 8 a.m. Lenten Mass.

Spokesmen at four Baltimore hospitals said at least 34 persons were injured. No one was killed.

The church holds about 400 persons.

The roof of the St. Rose of Lima church sagged under heavy snow and collapsed with a roar as Father Francis O'Brien was saying Mass to 60 to 70 children and a dozen or so adults.

"I heard a noise and the roof just caved in," said Father O'Brien, who had blood on his face, apparently from helping carry out injured persons.

The injured persons were taken to four hospitals. The most seriously injured was listed as a 13-year-old boy with a fractured skull.

The children attend St. Rose of Lima School, located next door to the church. They were returning to school after being off two days because of an 11-inch snowfall that blanketed Baltimore Monday night.

The Rev. Francis X. Moran, a Catholic priest who was in the school, said, "A noise was heard and seconds later the whole roof came in at once.

"The principal (of the school) was able to get some of the children out immediately." He identified the principal as Sister Mary Anne.

The school burned to the ground in 1925, and in 1950 a fire damaged the old church so badly that a new one had to be built.

George Feely Jr., 7, a pupil at the school, said he was about seven pews from the altar and heard something that "sounded like a door shutting.

"I saw something coming down," he said. "It was the ceiling."

Sedalia In Notebook Of 'Meter Men'

DES MOINES (AP) — Police said two men they took into custody had keys and tools to open any parking meter in the country and a notebook with details on meters in 12 cities in six states.

Officers identified them as Mel Edwards, 50, and Albert Green, 52, of Kansas City, Kan.

They were held on charges of conspiracy and possession of burglary tools.

An official estimated the city lost about $7,000 in meter thefts in the last six months of 1966.

Police arrested Edwards and Green Tuesday night on a tip.

In a car parked nearby, police said, they found two sacks containing $330 in change, 67 meter keys and burglary tools. A checkup disclosed more than 400 parking meters were empty and between $800 and $1,000 was missing.

Police Capt. Wendell Nichols said Edwards and Green could have opened any parking meter in Dallas, Tex., Tulsa, Kansas City, Kan., Columbia and Sedalia, Mo., Galesburg, Decatur, Jacksonville and Bloomington, Ill., and Des Moines, Waterloo and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A note referring to Jacksonville said:

"Best to make on Saturdays."

A note accompanying a key number for Dallas said:

"Supposed to be good on streets according to information from Howard. The only time to make this is on Saturday afternoons."

Still another note, referring to Tulsa, said:

"Across from Continental Bus Station is supposed to be a good lot."

Edwards and Green were arraigned before Municipal Judge Luther T. Glanton, who entered pleas of innocent for them and set a hearing for Feb. 23. They were jailed in lieu of $15,000 bond each.

Orbiter Zips Smoothly In Oblong Path

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter 3 zipped swiftly around the moon in an oblong orbit today, preparing to shoot close-up pictures of the rugged lunar surface.

Orbiter, trapped in the moon's gravitational field after a precise deboost maneuver Wednesday, circles the moon every 3 hours and 35 minutes at altitudes ranging from 131 to 1,118 miles.

"We'll shoot our first pictures next Wednesday," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, "and probably have a read-out of the first partial frame the same day."

Before that, he said, scientists controlling the experiment from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here will order the 850-pound craft to change its orbit, bringing it to within 28 miles of the surface at its lowest point.

If all goes well, a spokesman said, Lunar Orbiter 3 will photograph up to a dozen potential landing sites for American astronauts in a long, narrow corridor along the moon's equator.

The pictures, developed aboard the shiny spacecraft, will be radioed back to earth.

Name Cunningham As CMSC Regent

J. M. Cunningham, 1605 West 16th, was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today to be a member of the board of regents for Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

Cunningham, a Republican, is president of Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Co., and has been in business here over 20 years.

His appointment fills the vacancy created when John C. Ryan, also a Sedalian, successfully ran for public office.

No Major Violations

Vietnam New Year's Truce Eases Through Second Day

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The lunar new year truce eased through its second day today with neither side in the Vietnam war claiming a major violation. But U.S. and Vietnamese military authorities reported 114 incidents, and said 28 were considered significant.

Among the significant actions was a seven-hour fire fight between a company of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and an estimated 30 Viet Cong Wednesday in war Zone D north of Saigon.

A U.S. spokesman said the American company was making a positioning movement, returning to its base camp from an operational area, and was not conducting an offensive operation.

He said the Americans were moving to a new position and the guerrillas opened up from bunkers and trees. The Viet Cong used more than 100 hand grenades, rifle fire and a Claymore mine in the engagement, the spokesman said, while the Americans called in artillery and air strikes. The air attacks continued for four hours while the Americans removed their wounded, the spokesman reported.

The U.S. company was making a "positioning movement" and was not conducting an offensive operation, the spokesman said. He gave no further details.

With at least two more days to go in the cease-fire and all reports for the second day not yet in, the number of incidents was running slightly behind the total of 122 reported during the two-day truce at Christmas. But it was considerably below the 178 for the same cease-fire period over the New Year's weekend.

The number of incidents could have an important bearing on Washington's decision whether to extend the cease-fire to the seven days which the Viet Cong has proclaimed. President Johnson in a message to Pope Paul VI Wednesday night said he hoped the four-day period "may be extended and may open the way to negotiations for a just and stable peace."

Revamping Measure In House Today

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A new congressional redistricting bill—the closest yet to the Supreme Court's one man-one vote rule — hit the Missouri House today.

It was sponsored by Rep. J. Anthony Dill, R-Affton. Under his plan districts would vary from the population norm of 431,981 by only slightly more than one per cent for the largest district, the 1st in St. Louis, to slightly under one per cent for the smallest, the 9th of northeastern Missouri.

A bill by Sen. Omar H. Avery D-Troy, with a population variance of about 6 per cent, is scheduled for its first hearing next Monday.

In the Senate, Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, returned on crutches after a near fatal automobile accident Nov. 22. He got out of the hospital only Wednesday, but promptly made his voice heard in opposition to a bill to provide state aid for kindergartens.

He said he was not against kindergartens but charged the bill was just "another effort by the omnivorous teachers' lobby to ram through another pay raise.

"This is just a plain, old-fashioned, garden variety pay raise."

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, offered an amendment to limit the increased $5,162,000 under the school foundation program strictly for kindergarten use.

The Senate was still debating this proposal at noon and the bill had to be laid over when the Senate quit work until Monday.

The House received a bill to guarantee a minimum hourly wage of $1.25 except for farm workers, domestic help, executive and administrative positions, government employes, salesmen, educational and char-

Special Foreign Aid Appeal By Johnson

Assistance Would Reduce Chance of More Vietnams

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress for $3.1 billion in new foreign aid funds today. He strongly advised legislators against cutting the big overseas assistance program.

"The programs I proposed represent the minimum contribution to mutual security and international development which we can safely make," Johnson said in a special message on foreign aid for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Last year the President sought $3.39 billion but Congress chopped off $450 million. The program traditionally encounters tough going on Capitol Hill.

In pleading for $2.5 billion for economic assistance and $596 million in new arms aid for some 70 lands around the world, Johnson said:

"There are some who say that even this request should be foregone in view of needs at home and the costs of the struggle in Vietnam.

"Nothing could be more short-sighted and self-defeating."

Actually, Johnson said, the aid program will "reduce the chances of future Vietnams" and amounts to less than seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the national income of America, the wealthiest country in history.

No direct comparison with previous years' aid programs is possible because this year Johnson lumped large, unspecified amounts of arms aid funds into the regular U.S. defense budget.

The President listed a variety of "guiding principles" and new directions" which he wants Congress to write into the foreign aid law.

He stressed, as he has before, the need for self-help by aid-receiving countries, multination development and aid programs, promotion of agriculture, health and education abroad, limiting the dollar drain from the aid program and efficient administration.

To carry out these principles, Johnson proposed:

—Enactment of an entirely new foreign assistance legislation, to replace the existing law which has been repeatedly amended over the years.

—Creation of a national advisory committee on self-help to advise the government on how well aid-receiving nations are using their own resources.

—The earmarking of at least 85 per cent of economic development loans through multination

No Prospect Of Russian, Chinese War

Kosygin Trying To Maintain Full China Relations

LONDON (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today he sees no prospect of a war between the Soviet Union and Communist China. He said Moscow will do all it can to maintain relations with Peking.

Kosygin, on a visit to London, was replying to questions at a televised news conference.

"What is happening today points to an internal struggle in China, probably under the influence of various setbacks in foreign and domestic policies, and they are probably seeking some way out in aggravation of this strife," he said.

The Soviet Union, he said, would not break diplomatic relations first: "it all depends on the other side."

Kosygin has reached the halfway point of his talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson with three Soviet themes clearly emerging: a stone wall on Vietnam peace, the urgent need for a European security system and the chance of building a vast European trading combine.

Parents Notified Of Soldier's Death

DEXTER, Mo. (AP) — The parents of a Dexter, Mo., soldier said today they had been notified by the Defense Department that their son had been killed in action in South Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sisler said they had a telegram that their son, Lt. Kenneth Sisler, 29, was killed Jan. 7 by small arms fire near Da Nang.

East Moves Into Rapid Recovery

Storm Takes Lives, Costs $-Millions In Business Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The East moved today toward quick recovery from an icy blizzard that took lives and cost millions of dollars in business losses and snow removal expenses.

While a dozen states continued digging out from up to 16 inches of snow dumped by Tuesday's blizzard, the Weather Bureau forecast possible new snow tonight and Friday.

At least 81 deaths were attributed to the blizzard, many of them from heart attacks suffered while coping with the swirling snow and winds up to 50 miles an hour.

Thousands of school children returned to classes today after a two-day holiday, and for some it was a disappointment. For some working mothers, it was a relief.

Airports were back in business, and the once-deserted terminals were jammed with travelers. Workmen at Kennedy, La Guardia and Newark airports in the New York metropolitan area hoped to have all runways clear by this afternoon, when full air service was expected.

In Washington, traffic moved normally and an emergency parking ban was lifted. The Weather Bureau said there was a 40 per cent possibility of more snow falling in the nation's capital. The bureau said the snowfall, if there is one, would be light.

Shopping in New York City stores was reported off Wednesday. But David L. Yunich, president of Macy's New York, noted that sales in the company's Herald Square store and 10 branches were "surprisingly close to normal, considering the snowfall."

New York City officials said the city so far had spent more than $600,000 in overtime payment, equipment rentals and hiring of extra labor to remove 13 ins. of snow that clogged 6,000 miles of streets. A 7-inch snowstorm last Dec. 24 cost the city $1.9 million.

Philadelphia officials estimated the cost of snow removal at $800,000. In neighboring Bucks County, the cost was estimated at $300,000.

In New Haven, all primary roads were clear, but icy in spots. Most stores were open in the area, but business was reported slow Wednesday.

Most Are Skeptical

Notify Pope of US Efforts To Extend Viet Cease Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has messaged Pope Paul VI that the United States is participating in "intensive efforts" to extend the current cease-fire in Vietnam into a prolonged truce for peace negotiations.

But administration officials said privately that despite a possible brief extension of the cease-fire they are skeptical of a breakthrough toward a peace settlement at this time.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is due to sum up the peace probe maneuvers in a 4 pm EST news conference today. The White House called special attention to Rusk's conference by announcing it late Wednesday at the same time it released Johnson's answer to the Pope's latest peace appeal.

In the message Johnson kept open the possibility of a Vietnamese truce extension but virtually ruled out again any long-term halt in the bombing of North Vietnam not compensated by a scaling-down of North Vietnam's military action.

"I know you would not expect us," Johnson told the Pope, "to reduce military action unless the other side is willing to do likewise."

The lunar new year truce in Vietnam is now in its second day. The United States and South Vietnam announced weeks ago they would stop fighting for four days.

Subsequently the Communists called for a seven-day cease-fire and the allies responded with a proposal for talks about the conditions of a prolonged suspension of hostilities. The bombing of North Vietnam is suspended during the truce now in effect.

Since the truce began shooting incidents have been reported in the South. In the North, U. S. aircraft continued to fly reconnaissance missions and one plane was shot down Wednesday.

The State Department and Department of Defense declined to treat the plane loss a major incident of truce violation. De-

Union To Meet On Local Strike Issues

Members of the local union on strike at the Steam-O-Matic Corp. of the Rival Manufacturing Co. in Sedalia are to vote on the results of a conference held Wednesday night between the representatives of corporation, the union, and Charles Harding, Federal mediator. The announcement was made late Wednesday night by Harding of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Kansas City.

The union meeting was called for 1 p. m. Thursday at the Labor Temple, Second and Lamine. Results of the meeting were not available at press time.

The conference was held at the Holiday Inn Wednesday night.

MPSC Pays For Use Of Facilities

Missouri Public Service Co., informed Mayor Ralph Walker, Sedalia would be paid a total $143,144.86 during 1967 as "part of an agreement" through which the utilities firm is permitted to operate on and use city streets and alleys.

The figure mentioned in the letter represents five per cent of total sales in the city in both gas and electrical fields. The city was paid in the same manner during 1966.

For this year, according to Robert C. Storey, director of Municipal Relations for Missouri Public Service Co., his firm will pay Sedalia $82,965.32 from electric revenue, and $60,179.54 for gas revenue. The company said both figures represent five percent of total revenue in these areas, and listed the sales as totalling $1,659,306.42 for electricity and $1,203,590.86 for gas during 1966.

The payments, said Storey's letter, are part of ". . . our agreement with your city, paying you for the permission granted in our gas and electric franchise to use your streets and alleys. The payments from Feb. 1, 1967, through Jan. 31, 1968, will be based on revenue from your city during the calendar year of 1966."

None of the payments made to the city include revenue derived from municipal or industrial sales last year.

Mrs. Gandhi Met By Big Crowds

NANDED, India (AP) — The twin-engine DC3 touched down gently on the bumpy grass landing strip in this farming community in southeastern India, sending a cloud of dust over 10,000 persons waiting patiently in 100-degree heat for a brief glimpse of their prime minister.

The crowd, held back by police with bamboo clubs, tried to surge forward as the door of the Indian air force plane opened.

Then, as the smiling, sari-clad figure appeared in the doorway, her hands cupped in front of her in the traditional Indian "namaste" greeting, the villagers began shouting over and over:

"Indira Gandhi zindabad (long live)!"

"Indira Gandhi ki jai (victory to)!"

Another grueling day of campaigning had begun on behalf of her ruling Congress party.

In 16 hours, ending at 11:30 p.m. she would travel by plane and car, addressing nine public rallies and making countless roadside stops to talk with people outside their mud-walled huts.

Since Jan. 1, Mrs. Gandhi, 49, has maintained this schedule almost daily. Her goal is to visit all 17 states before the week-long national elections start next Wednesday.

Three months ago she had a serious cold that forced her to cancel appointments for several days. But now she shows no signs of ill health as she works 18-hour days, combining campaigning with day to day administration.

"I've been keeping this pace for 15 years," she says, "so it is about time I got used to it." Wherever she travels, she evokes memories of her father, Jawaharlal Nehru, who often addressed rallies past midnight and dictated letters until 2 a.m.

"Mrs. Gandhi attracts crowds just as large as her father used to, although more women come out to hear her," says Nathu Ram, an aide to both.

With a tide of Hindu revivalism in the wake of agitation for a nationwide ban against the slaughter of cows, Mrs. Gandhi pleads for religious unity.

"Hindus can only be good Hindus if they respect other religions," she said in Nagpur, a center of Hindu militancy where a religious fanatic once tried to kill Nehru.

Mrs. Gandhi raises her voice when she charges that the communal-minded Jan Sangh party, if it comes to power, will "ruin this nation because it is the same type of Fascist organization that existed in Europe 25 years ago."

There is seldom any large burst of applause at the rallies — some attended by 100,000 persons — because many of the villagers come out just for a glimpse of the prime minister.

Contest Winners Get Trophy, Savings Bond

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A trophy and a $50 U. S. savings bond went to A. E. Hockmeir and Sons of Henrietta, Mo., as winner of the 1966 Missouri soybean yield contest.

The contest is conducted by the cooperative extension service of the University of Missouri. The Hockmeirs produced nearly 57 bushels of Wayne soybeans per acre and won their second title in the event's three years.

Smith Brothers of Richmond, with 55½ bushels an acre using Clark 63 beans, were the second-place winners.

One Woman Dies In Train-Car Collision

CURRYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—A collision involving a freight train and an automobile driven by Mrs. Donald McDowell took the life of Mrs. McDowell Wednesday. She was thrown out of the car, which was dragged about 50 feet by the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio train.

The wreck was on a gravel road near the junctions of U.S. 54 and Missouri 154 between Bowling Green and Vandalia. Mrs. McDowell, 27, was the mother of two children.

Says Marijuana Was Needed For Cookies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — James Ashton Tetlow, 41, pleaded guilty to a narcotics charge Wednesday, saying he needed the marijuana to whip up a batch of cookies.

Tetlow said he first tasted marijuana cookies while working as a ship's cook off the coast of Acapulco, Mexico.

Jerald D. Mize, Tetlow's lawyer, said his client told him he ate five or six one morning while fixing breakfast, promptly went to sleep and stayed asleep through lunchtime.

Tetlow said he bought half a pound of marijuana in Mexico to bring home and try the recipe himself.

He will be sentenced after probation officers conduct an investigation.

"I've been on the bench for a long time but I never heard anything like that before," said U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally.

Argentine Chancellor Dies In Rome Today

ROME (AP) — Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, the Argentine chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church, died in a Rome hospital today. He was 87.

The cardinal fell ill with influenza last week and pneumonia developed. He suffered a heart attack Wednesday night and was taken from his residence in downtown Rome to a clinic.

His death reduced the College of Cardinals to 95. Pietro Cardinal Ciriaci of Italy died Dec. 30.

Cardinal Copello headed the apostolic chancery at the Vatican, which issues letters of canonization and papal bulls on appointments, ne wdioceses and other administrative decrees.

Pope Paul VI sent an aide from the Vatican with his benediction for the cardinal.

40 Jobs In One Year Mean Tax Aches

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Consider the case of an unidentified New Bedford fisherman who walked into a tax consulting office the other day with 40 W-2 forms. Those are the forms that list wages paid and tax deducted.

The man had held 40 jobs during 1966. Every time he went to sea aboard a fishing boat it was a new job.

James E. Wheeler, New Bedford manager of the tax firm, said he thought the sheaf of W-2 forms set a record. But then he made a few inquiries and learned of a man who brought 80 forms into the company's Boston office.

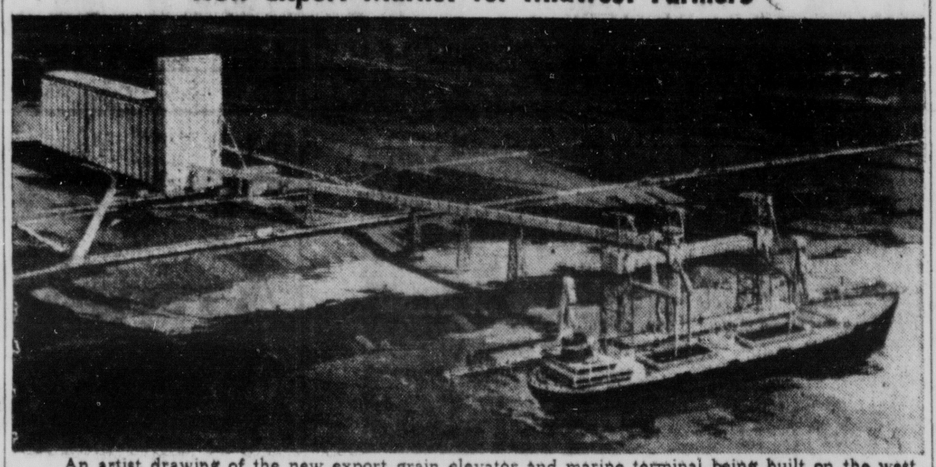

He was a fisherman, too.

Conditions For Negotiated Peace Better

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, says conditions for a negotiated peace in Vietnam have become more favorable.

But Taylor told an audience Wednesday night at New Mexico State University that "as far as he knew," there had been no tangible evidence of progress toward negotiations. He said that if North Vietnam should put out a peace feeler, it would be done so quietly and carefully that "you and I won't know anything about it."

Speaking before 1,500 persons, Taylor said that Hanoi, Peking and Moscow have started a propaganda campaign "to convince the U.S. that a halt to bombing (of North Vietnam) is the only chance for peace."

Taylor speaks tonight at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, where a group of students began a "peace vigil" Wednesday night. About 30 students were in the university's concert hall, where Taylor was to speak, reading, playing a phonograph and fasting.

They said they would stay until after Taylor's speech.

Latin Lady Keeps Her Man Waiting

TORONTO (AP) — Donald Phillips was deeply in love with Leticia Sanchez, but his 20-year-old sweetheart from Saltillo, Mexico, wouldn't accept him.

Donald, 22 and a student at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, strung a 25-foot sign between two broom handles near a subway exit Wednesday and waited for his girl to emerge on her way to her Toronto home.

The sign, in Spanish, said: "Leticia-Will you marry me?"

She came out, took his flowers and his ring, kissed him several times while subway patrons gaped, but still didn't say yes.

But later she told newsmen: "Of course, I am going to say yes."

Food Aid Plan Met With Cool Reception

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A U. S. plan for food aid to developing countries was received cooly by six foreign ministers at a European Common Market meeting.

Major exporters and importers of grains would share the cost of food aid. Some delegates called it a disguised U. S. bid to gain access to new markets with the common market sharing the costs.

Some said most EEC member states would prefer to solve the food aid problems through the United Nations conference for trade and development, in which the developing countries are represented.

Librarian Fined For Forgetting A Ticket

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An Albuquerque public library employe had the library's system of paying fines applied against her recently in a courtroom.

Mrs. Jesus Flores told Municipal Court Judge James A. Maloney she had forgotten about a $1 parking ticket she received 82 days ago.

Maloney fined her four cents — the same charged for overdue books at the library — for each day the ticket was unpaid. The ticket plus the fine totaled $4.28.

Mardi-Gras Clean Up Continues To Today

Children Work For Happiness

NEW YORK (AP) — 'We love you, too," say the children at suburban Seaford Harbor Elementary School in a Valentine's Day gesture to some mentally retarded youngsters.

From kindergarten through the sixth grade, the 1,000 pupils at Seaford have worked for more than a month to make toys for the less fortunate at the Association for the Help of Retarded Children Center in nearby Brookville on Long Island.

The project is called "We love you, too."

Twenty-five pupils from Seaford Harbor and 10 adults from the Parent-Teachers' Association will deliver the toys and a lollypop tree to the mentally retarded children within the next two weeks.

Florence Cangeleri, president of the Seaford Harbor PTA, said the project was begun as a means of bringing happiness and understanding to the mentally retarded.

"We had decided to create a mental health program in school to have the young children understand the meaning of mental retardation," she explained. "When children see another child mentally retarded, they don't always understand.

"If they had an understanding that they are all God's children, they wouldn't ridicule them as they sometimes do. They would understand that they are ill."

Mrs. Cangeleri, who has two children in school at Seaford, said the pupils made stuffed animals out of felt, hand puppets from material and miniature towns out of balsa wood during their art classes. The PTA supplied the money for the project from funds raised by selling Christmas articles and other events.

She said that when the 25 pupils make the presentation, they will report to the others on their visitation.

Recommend Unification Of Prisons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration asked Congress to establish a unified corrections service to take over functions of the Bureau of Prisons and assume major responsibility for probation and parole.

The request is the first of five the Justice Department plans to submit in order to fill out the recommendations made by President Johnson in his message to Congress on fighting crime.

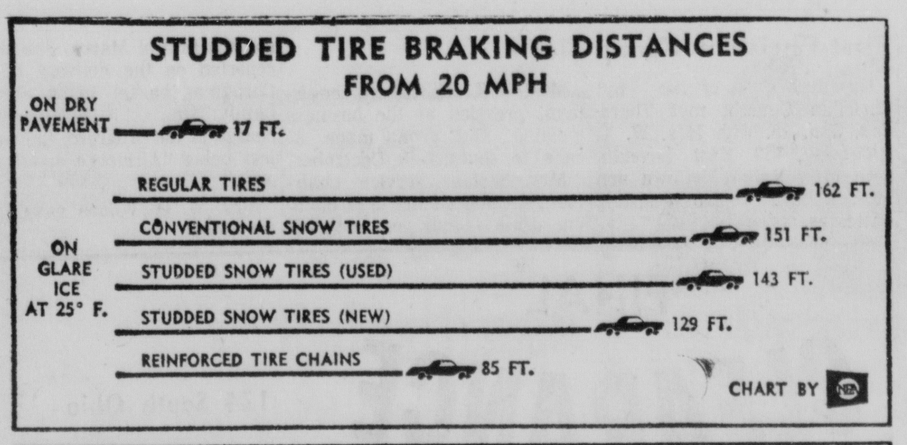

The new service would be headed by a $27,000-a-year director who would report to the attorney general. That cabinet official would have authority over federal offenders from the time they are sentenced until they are returned to society, including probation and parole.

The attorney general also would become responsible for youth offenders who are at liberty under conditional release and for efforts to rehabilitate them.

The probation service would remain a part of the system but be responsible only for preparing reports to judges prior to sentencing of offenders. Responsibility for parolees and probationaries would rest in the correction service and the Justice Department.

The plan would establish an advisory council to review problems in the treatment and correction of those convicted of crimes and would make recommendations about crime prevention and delinquency.

The plan would authorize the attorney general to encourage voluntary organizations to take over supervision of offenders released on probation.

Although controversy still surrounds use of studded tires, 33 states and the District of Columbia now make their use legal for winter driving, according to the American Automobile Association. Studies in several states have resulted in contradictory opinions on damage to road surfaces from the metal studs. A National Safety Council test, however, found studded tires second only to reinforced tire chains in effective braking distance on glare ice.

Agony Column Put Back In Old Place

LONDON (AP) — The agony column of the London Times, one of British journalism's most famous institutions, is being restored to something of its old glory — on the back page.

The new editors of the Times, which was recently acquired by press magnate Lord Thomson, announced the paper's page of classified ads would move to the back page Monday as part of a new layout.

For decades the classifieds, with the popular personal notices known as the agony column, occupied the front page of the paper. Last May they were moved to the second page and the front was turned over to the main news of the day, like most other newspapers.

Readers weren't happy with the change. The Times said its new layout would give the readers "a more logical run-through."

Army Sergeant Hurt By Long-Distance

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — An Army sergeant had his left leg broken Wednesday when struck by a piece of metal from a missile which shattered on impact one-half mile away from him.

Authorities said Sgt. Donald K. Colson, 45, senior member of the Explosives Ordnance Demolition Crew at White Sands Missile Range, was in satisfactory condition at an El Paso, Tex. military hospital.

He was standing one-half mile away when a Hawk ground-to-air missile, designed for use by troops against enemy aircraft, fragmented on impact about 14 miles north of the main portion of the base.

Dedicates RPC Groups In State

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes dedicated the first two Regional Planning Commissions in Missouri today, expressing the hope they could bridge the gap between social needs and technological advances.

He spoke first at West Plains, then flew to Poplar Bluff for a similar ceremony.

In a speech prepared for the West Plains meeting he said tremendous technological advances in the "soaring sixties" have placed a severe strain on the social structure.

"The conflicts and confusions we experience in our everyday relationships," he said, "are primarily occasioned by our inability to close the gap between learning and understanding, and the vast advances resulting from space-age research.

He told the South Central Ozark Regional Planning Commission its main concern will be to plan and develop a system of better roads, schools, parks, social and cultural activities.

But he warned that "planning is useless and can be a trial and tribulation to the people unless their personal welfare is considered as important in any final decisions."

The governor said "planning and people are the necessary common elements to achieve the desired result of a better tomorrow for this region."

Hearnes sounded a similar note in a ceremony two hours later at Poplar Bluff. He said both regions offer marvelous opportunities for development of human, natural and economic resources through sound planning.

He said the "society-technology gap" must be closed by sound local planning because it "even now raises a discordant note of alarm in our society and threatens to bring havoc and ruin" to social and economic progress.

"We cannot fail because we do not wish the federal government to fill the vacuum that we would create by our own inaction."

S-C Forensic Squad Placed In Tournament

The Smith-Cotton Forensic Squad, under the direction of Mr. Dan B. Curtis, head of the forensic department at Smith-Cotton, placed one debate team in finals and two individual entries in finals at the St. Paul Speech and Debate Tournament which was held in Concordia, last weekend.

The regular debate team of Tracy Strombom and Jill Ulmer, both juniors, placed third in regular division debate by defeating Wm. Chrisman High School in quarter-finals.

Randy Burton and Cindy Jennings each qualified for finals in their individual events by attaining speaker ranks of one or better for two rounds of performance.

In championship division debate the team of Terry Winebrenner and Craig Cassing won three of their five rounds of debate but failed to qualify for quarter-finals due to high speaker ranks.

This was the squads last invitational tournament of the season and plans are now underway for Smith-Cotton's own invitational tournament which is to be held on Feb. 17 and 18.

Marine Couple Find Distance Is Not Great

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Capt. Robert Williams and Capt. Anna Williams are Marines and man and wife. He's stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla., and she is stationed in Kansas City.

But the 350-mile separation hasn't been too much of a problem, Mrs. Williams said Wednesday.

"It's working out a lot better than we thought it would. Actually, I don't think our situation is any different from those couples where a husband travels a lot."

Williams, an artillery instructor at Ft. Sill, flies in by plane every weekend.

"He even brings his laundry home one weekend and picks it up the next," Mrs. Williams said.

They met in 1964 while stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif. and were married in June of 1966 after Williams returned from two years' service in Vietnam.

Mrs. Williams joined the Women's Marine Corps after graduation from Capital University in Columbus, Ohio.

"I just planned to stay in for my two-year enlistment, but I've been in five years now."

Her home town is Cincinnati.

Gold Medal For Disney Offered As A Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Posthumous issuance of a gold medal to honor Walt Disney, creator of an entertainment empire, was proposed today.

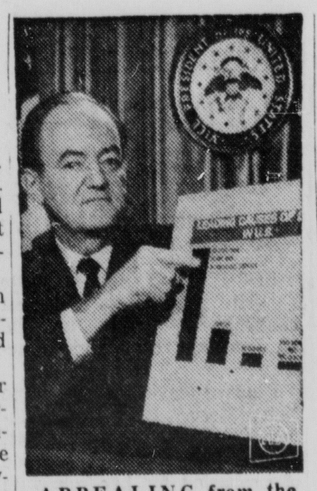

Under a bill introduced by Rep. Robert Dole, R-Kan., the President would be authorized to present the award to Disney's next of kin. Disney died Dec. 15.

"Walt Disney's name has been synonymous with the best in the field of entertainment," Dole said in a statement. "He also reached the peak of creativity in bringing to peoples all over the world hundreds of hours of pleasure.

"Since 1928, when he launched his Mickey Mouse series he won international acclaim for his ingenuity and ability to bring to the screen the wonders of animation."

Dole noted Disney's contributions also extended to wildlife and conservation.

The idea for honoring Disney, Dole said, originated with Mrs. Jack D. Boyd of Meade, Kan., in 1963. Dole said he regretted his bill was not introduced then "but in many ways, it is even more timely now."

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

The next meeting will be March 1.

Spotting Lung Blood Clots May Save Lives

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A nuclear medicine expert, Dr. George Taplin, told a symposium at Washington University Wednesday that a method of spotting blood clots in the lungs may have many lives.

Dr. Taplin, of the UCLA School of Medicine, told a symposium that a painless method of scanning the lungs may substantially reduce the 50,000 deaths yearly attributed to misdiagnosis of fatal lung blood cloth.

The method would make use of radioactive substance injected into the blood stream. A machine similar to an x-ray machine would produce a picture of the blood system in the lungs and any clots would be spotted easily, Dr. Taplin said.

Anti-coagulants could be administered to any person found suffering from a clot, Dr. Taplin added.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for six years. I am 21. Sam is 26. The problem is his temper.

If the car won't start, Sam will break the windshield with his fist or kick a dent in the fender. The shirts had better be ironed perfectly or he will tear them to pieces. Once, when the TV broke, he hit me with the antenna and I had to have 22 stitches in my leg.

It is because of last night that I am writing this letter. I was sitting in the rocking chair reading and all of a sudden Sam yelled, "I can't stand that squeaking noise." He picked up the rocking chair with me in it and heaved it out the front door. My head hit the cement steps and I'm lucky to be alive.

My friends say Sam is a nut and I'm crazier than he is for putting up with him. Can you help me? — PURPLE HEART ACHE.

Dear Purple: Probably not, because I'm afraid your friends are right. If you didn't switch channels after that 5-star TV performnce you must enjoy wearing bandages. So just stay with the lunatic and keep your health and accident insurance up because you're going to need it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother with three children under five years of age. They are all sick today because a stupid, inconsiderate relative brought over two youngsters with running noses and hacking coughs.

One of the young visitors was red as a beet and I'm sure he had a temperture. I wouldn't think of taking my children any place when they aren't well. How can some mothers be so dumb?—JUST FUMING.

Der Just: Motherhood is one accomplishment that requires no brains. It is virtually impossible to protect your children against the germs of other children. If some visiting kid doesn't cough in your children's faces, somebody in school will. Your best bet is to see that your youngsters get enough rest, are well-nourished and properly clothed.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do to keep my mother from ruining my little sister's life as she ruined mine?

I dropped out of school at 15 because my mother was always sick and I had to stay home to take care of her. I flunked so many subjects that finally I gave up.

Now my little sister is falling into the same trap. I would give anything in the world to help her, but I don't know what to do.

Liz is a very smart girl but her grades are poor and she is so far behind now she wants to quit and start over next semester. She is only 14 and I hate to see her louse up her education the way I did.

The doctors can't find anything wrong with Mom but she insists she is sick and can't get out of bed some mornings. I have given up trying to help Mom but I cannot give up on my little sister. What should I do? —ROPE'S END.

Dear R.E.: Children should not be kept home from school to care for ill members of the family. A day or so in an emergency is O.K., but the situation you describe will surely lead to the end of your sister's education. Call your clergyman (or any clergyman) and ask to be put in touch with an agency that will give you the help you need.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Blindness Portrayal Difficult

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How to simulate blindness is the latest challenge of Audrey Hepburn, an unusually conscientious actress.

Whether playing a nun ("The Nun's Story," 1959) or a Cockney ("My Fair Lady," 1964), Miss Hepburn makes a practice of preparing for her role with thoroughness. In "Wait Until Dark," her first Hollywood film since "My Fair Lady," she is playing a recently blinded wife who is menaced by three hoodlums in search of a cache of heroin.

"Portraying blindness is a lot more difficult than it seems," she commented before undergoing a series of camera tests. "Naturally, the audience knows that Audrey Hepburn is not blind. So how am I going to convince them that I am blind in the story?

"Some have suggested that I stare at a fixed point off-camera, but I don't like that idea. I think it would distract both me and the audience. Besides, one of the things I learned in my research was that the blind are taught to direct their eyes to those the yare talking to."

Miss Hepburn, whose husband Mel Ferrer is producing "Wait Until Dark," visited a clinic for the blind in Lausanne, near their Swiss home. Then she spent two days at the Light House Institute for the Blind in New York City, undergoing blindfold training with real-life trainees.

"It was a strange and enlightening experience," she remarked. "You realize how helpless you are without sight, and yet you learn how much can be taught to blind people so they can be virtually independent.

"One of the most interesting sessions was learning how to work in a kitchen. Even the simplest of actions, like the making of a sandwich, must be thought out. You must feel everything—the sense of touch is all you have—and you even have to put your fingers on the ham, to determine if you have spread it evenly.

"You must learn how to use a knife without cutting yourself, how to operate a stove without burning yourself—much of the training is aimed at preventing injury."

Bills On Academic Requirements Fail

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Two bills on the academic requirements for enrollment and the tuition for out-of-state students at the University of Missouri and the state colleges failed Wednesday to get out of the Education Committee of the Missouri Senate.

Sen. Earl L. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, sponsored the bills.

One would limit freshman enrollment at the state colleges to those who were in the upper 40 per cent of their high school graduating class and at the university to those in the upper 12½ per cent.

The other would require out-of-state students to pay the "per student" cost of operating the school they attend. Sen. Blackwell estimated the average is $882.

The committee also heard testimony but did not act on a bill to allow a junior college to provide adult or specialized education to anyone 19 or older residing in its district.

First Christian Group Meets

Group No. 5, of the First Christian Church, met Thursday, Jan. 19, with Mrs. W. T. Ridgeway, 319 East Seventh, with Mrs. Ralph McCown and Mrs. Minnie Renfro assisting hostesses.

Mrs. J. L. Hiltenberg, chairman, presided at the business meeting. The group made 33 calls to shut-ins in December.

Mrs. Skolaut, service chairman, announced the used clothing drive is now on and will end the first of March. She also reported on the delivery of a Christmas basket to a needy family. Mrs. C. F. Scotten had charge of the program. the subject being "Affluence and Poverty."

Mrs. W. O. Wilson gave the devotional.

For A House Seat

Think Powell's Silence Has Damaged His Chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a select House committee looking into Adam Clayton Powell's qualifications to be seated said today they think the Harlem Democrat has hurt his chances by refusing to answer some of its questions.

Powell, acting on the advice of his lawyers, cited constitutional objections Wednesday as he refused to discuss his New York legal difficulties and charges he misused government travel funds.

There was widespread feeling, both within and outside of the committee, that he had made it difficult for Democrats who want to find some way to seat him.

Some felt that his legal objections, essentially that the select committee should confine itself to the constitutional requirements of age, citizenship and inhabitancy in considering his qualifications, were intended mainly for use in a later court challenge to any unseating move.

"I think he made a mistake in not taking the opportunity to explain the allegations against him," said Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif.

And a Democratic member, Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida, said "I regret that Mr. Powell didn't make a full response to all the questions. It would have afforded him a good opportunity to comment on some of the impressions people have gotten about his activities."

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., asked about the probable effect of Powell's performance, said, "You will have to be the judge of that. But it certainly didn't help him."

Celler said the committee planned to call additional witnesses before it reports back to the House Feb. 23. The House set this deadline Jan. 10 when it voted 364 to 64 to have Powell stand aside until a select committee could determine his qualifications.

In rejecting Powell's contention that the probe should be confined to whether he possesses the constitutional requirements of being 25, a citizen for seven years and an inhabitant of the state which chooses him, Celler said the House gave the committee a "very broad" mandate.

Without benefit of your testimony," Celler told him, "the committee will have to draw upon other sources." He said it "has no alternative but to draw whatever inferences may flow from whatever public record has been made."

These presumably would include the findings of a House administration subcommittee that Powell used official funds for private travel and had his wife on the payroll even though she lives in Puerto Rico. Also included could be four arrest orders for contempt of court now outstanding in New York as a result of a long unpaid court judgment.

Powell asked permission to make a statement to the committee, but Celler said Powell had lost his right to speak by refusing to answer questions.

"They broke their agreement," Powell told newsmen outside the hearing room. Then he delivered portions of his statement before television cameras, telling "my dear colleagues" that "Adam Clayton Powell is not on trial today, but the United States Constitution is."

Powell did not disclose his plans, but a New York lawyer who handles his business affairs, Seymour Barash, told reporters he is planning a nationwide speaking tour for Powell this spring.

The Harlem Democrat will be accompanied by a singing group from Bimini, the Bahamas, Barash said, adding that the purpose of the trip will be to pay off the rest of the New York court judgment and heavy legal fees in connection with it.

After opening statements by Powell's attorneys, and the rejection of their legal motions, Powell was sworn in and proceeded to answer questions, declaring he was born in New Haven, Conn., in 1908 and has been a resident of New York City since he was six months old.

He said he has been to New York "always on Sunday" to preach at his Abyssianian Baptist Church, but answered "I can't recall" when asked when last he spent the night at his New York apartment.

When the committee raised the question of the court case and the other charges, Powell said, "on advice of counsel, I will not answer."

After several such responses, he looked at the committee and said, "I would not want you to force me to break the Constitution."

Sedalia Rose Society Studys Landscaping

The Sedalia Rose Society meeting was held Thursday evening, Feb. 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Wehrli, 1505 South Barrett, with Mrs. P. L. Strole and Henry Kipp assisting. A dessert course was served at 7:30 p.m.

The president, Mrs. Wilson Harbit, presided over the business meeting.

Everett Stumpf, program chairman, announced the program topic, "Landscaping With Roses," and presented Mrs. P. L. Strole who gave an article from the American Rose Annual written by Rosalie Doolittle, Albuquerque, N. M., nationally known rosarian and author.

The title of the article was "Feature Rores in Your Landscape Plan." Rose hobbyists she said, should feature their roses in their landscape plan and established gardens can be improved by careful planning and redesigning that the much loved roses need not be grown in the backyard as is so often the case. The art of landscape gardening is somewhat like painting a picture with the best of nature's gifts and the rose is at the top of treasures. The favorite flower should be where people can see it.

Mrs. Wehrli played several selections on the piano.

Mrs. Judson Banks and Mrs. James Richardson had charge of the exhibit display the theme of which was "Breath of Spring."

Dowries Are Still Looked Forward To

PORT ALLEN, La. (AP) — Dowries may be out of fashion but in this small city across the Mississippi River from Baton Rouge, newlyweds expect them.

The Parish (County) Police Jury, the governing body, Wednesday approved routinely the distribution of its annual dowries to couples who were married here last year.

Already, the 40 couples were planning what to do with the $85 they each will receive soon. Some planned to pay off bills, others wanted to buy new clothes or an appliance.

"I think it's a wonderful idea," said Mrs. Joseph C. Cazes Jr., 44, who was married Dec. 16. "I think dowries should definitely be brought back."

It started 143 years ago when Julien de Lalande Poydras had $30,000 set aside in his will for dowries to couples in the parish. Legend has it that Poydras did it because his beloved couldn't marry him for lack of a dowry.

The police jury has been faithful in keeping tradition, investing the money and using the interest to pay annual dowries to couples who married the previous year. The fund has grown to $60,000.

Few of the recipients know of the Poydras legend but most newly married couples feel they're entitled to the money. One housewife complained that she missed out 15 years ago because her husband didn't apply.

It's a pleasant duty for the police jurors. While at one time there were more restrictions, the only requirements now are marriage in the previous year, five years' residency in the parish, and making application with the clerk of court.

A nearby parish, Pointe Coupe, also was given money for the same purpose but it is now gone.

"They used it to construct a new school," said Howard LaBauvre Jr., secretary of the police jury.

Hospitals Turning To Australia For Nurses

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hospitals in the Los Angeles area are looking to Australia to recruit nurses.

"The shortage is very acute," said a spokesman for White Memorial and Glendale Seventh-day Adventist hospitals.

Frank Phillips, personnel director at White Memorial, has already left for Australia to interview nurses at Sydney.

A survey last year showed there were only 261 nurses for every 100,000 residents of the Los Angeles area. The average 10 years earlier was 300 nurses.

MISS AMERICAN TEEN-AGER, Rebecca Alkire, 18, of Circleville, Ohio, listens to instructions from Eddie Saeta, director of the television show "Man From U.N.C.L.E.," in which she received a role in "The Executive Sweets Affair" episode, scheduled to appear soon. Entries are now open for the 8th annual "Miss American Teen-Ager" contest, for girls throughout the United States, included in ages 13 through 17. The contest is held at Palisades Amusement Park, Palisade, N.J.

Former Sedalian Retires From KC Newspaper

Mrs. Ann Shank, 301 West Armour, Kansas City, a former Sedalian, retired as head of The Kansas City Star's pension and insurance department after 23 years and a story about her appeared in the Kansas City Times on Thursday, Feb. 2.

Mrs. Shank became an employee in the payroll department of The Star 23 years ago, and was the department head when she was placed in charge of the insurance and pension office about three years ago.

"Like most of the other departments," Mrs. Shank said, "the payroll and pension departments have seen a lot of changes." When I first came to The Star we paid the employees with cash. Then we used checks, and now we use a computer to do the figuring and fill out the checks."

She is not sure what she will do now but she said: "there is one thing I'm going to do for sure, and that's throw away the alarm clock."

Mrs. Shank was employed in the Pettis County collectors office before going to Kansas City. She is a sister of Miss Mary Smasal, 1111 West Second.

Bullet In Neck Can't Be Removed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A studious-looking youth who wants to be a teacher some day has a serious roadblock — a Viet Cong bullet in his neck.

Doctors haven't been able to remove the 30-caliber slug from Spec. 4 Carl Joiner because it is too near his spinal cord.

Although he's able to walk around, Joiner, 20, has limited use of his hands.

He can't button his shirt, tie his shoes or write legibly. He can feed himself but explains, "I don't hold a fork right. I just manage to hold onto it."

Joiner went into the service after graduating from Columbia Heights High School in June 1965.

He had been in Vietnam 10 months last Sept. 30 when, as crew chief of an Army helicopter, the aircraft touched down in a rice field near Tuy Hoa on the central coast. He and three buddies were to pick up some rice the infantry had captured.

"Some of us were looking forward to going home on leave soon," Joiner recalled Wednesday at his parents' home. "I was due home November 30th for a 30-day leave."

Then the Viet Cong popped up from the rice fields and fired.

"I had my back to the window when I was hit but I didn't realize it at first. I fell to the floor of the chopper and one leg dangled out the window. Then I saw the blood."

The Americans survived the attack and surgeons found a bullet less than an inch from Joiner's spinal cord that had paralyzed him from the neck down.

Doctors at Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, D.C., told him they could remove the bullet and paralyze his neck and possibly other parts of his body the rest of his life. Or, they could leave the bullet in his neck and permit him fuller use of his hands.

Joiner will return to Walter Reed next week for further diagnosis. He said he may ask surgeons to leave the bullet in his neck.

"I want the use of my hands," he said. "If the hands get better I'll leave it there." He hopes to go to college and teach high school English.

King Of Morocco To U. S. For Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accompanied by several members of his family and a team of cabinet ministers, the king of Morocco comes to Washington today for talks with President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"I am looking forward to meeting the President, a meeting which no doubt will open up new horizons of cooperation between our countries," King Hassan II said Wednesday when he arrived by ship in New York.

The monarch brought with him his son, Crown Prince Sidi Mohammed, 3; his daughter, Princess Lalla Myrien, 4; his brother, Prince Moulay Abdallah, and his sister, Princess Lalla Aisha.

Possibilities for economic or military aid are considered likely topics for the visiting ruler's talks with Johnson and Rusk.

Does Not Anticipate Difficulty

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — "I do not anticipate a great deal of difficulty at all," says the Negro principal of an elementary school who has been given the job of hiring and assigning all teachers and other school personnel in the Little Rock School District.

The principal, William Harry Fowler, 44, says "tremendous progress" has been made in the 10 years since Little Rock was one of the South's first battlegrounds on school desegregation.

"The progress Little Rock has made since 1957 certainly has set an example of what can be done in the area of desegregation," Fowler said Wednesday night. "It's one the entire nation could follow."

The year 1957 was when former Gov. Orval E. Faubus ordered the Arkansas National Guard to block the court-ordered entrance of Negroes to Central High School here, and President Eisenhower sent federal troops to insure the enrollment of nine Negro students at the school.

Fowler, who is expected to take over his new post by March 1, said the school district is under a court order to speed staff desegregation, and he intends to carry out the mandate.

"But I hope to place people where they will best serve, regardless of race," he added. "I have a very strong conviction that a school system is no better than the persons it employs. My main interest will be to continue to seek and employ the very best people available."

The school board has pledged to desegregate each school staff as soon as possible, and Fowler said: "It can be done and I will do it."

Fowler was the unanimous choice of the Little Rock School Board for the district's $12,000-a-year post of assistant superintendent for personnel. It is the highest position ever held by a Negro in the city's school system.

S-C Drama Club Initiates 16 New Members

The 1966-67 Smith-Cotton Drama Club held the initiation of 16 new members Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Mrs. Ellen Rodgers, sponsor, Bud Clark, president, and David Nichols, vice-president, presided over the ceremonies while members from previous years assisted.

The purpose of the club was stressed while each new member participated in the initiation ceremony. Those initiated were Anne Fitzwilliam, Barbara Markman, Chris Lavers, Diana Eberting, Orrinna Smith, Paulette Reistad, Barb Schrader, Diana Goodier, Linda Steegal, Keith Owen, Wayne Christian, Mike Farley, Charles Stanley, Vicky Wasserman, Daniel Boone, and Jinny Benitz.

Drama Club members have found themselves very busy this year, especially preparing for play presentations. Earlier this year "The Night of January 16" by Ayn Rand was given. Now the students are working very hard on another play entitled "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder to be presented March 17 in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Better US Policy On Asia Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy urges the United States to develop an Asian policy "based on the reality and diversity of today's Asia and on a discriminating evaluation of our own interests, capacities and limitations."

Addressing a University of Chicago conference on China Wednesday night, the New York Democrat said the United States, though for 20 years the strongest power in Asia, has acted there "virtually without conscious policy and direction, unaware of what we seek and the price we are prepared to pay."

"We have striven to isolate China from the world and treated it with unremitting hostility," he declared. "That, however, is not a policy. It is an attitude founded upon fear and passion and wishful hopes.

"In Korea, the Formosa Straits and India, we responded to immediate situations of danger. Those actions were necessary, but they were designed to protect the present rather than to prepare for the future."

Kennedy said a new China policy "will emerge, not as a sudden revelation, but slowly out of discussion and danger, from shifting events and painful battles. We must make active efforts to think a plan, learn, decide and act."

Kennedy warned that the United States probably will still face a hostile China when the present upheaval there subsides. But he said "hostile words and proclamations are not wars" and "do not prevent us from having contact, or from reaching agreements on matters of mutual interest."

"We should not discourage contact of any kind," he went on, "by ourselves or other nations whether economic or diplomatic — even tourism — for a rational and informed China will be far easier to deal with than an irrational and ignorant one."

Pointing out that "we are not alone with China in Asia," he said that in the long run the "vision and commitment" of India, Japan and Indonesia "will determine in large part the course of affairs on their continent, just as it is Great Britain, West Germany, France and Italy which now set the primary thrust of development in Western Europe."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Latin-American revolutionaries' conference will convene in Havana July 28, the Cuban radio reports.

"The conference of representatives of the people and of revolutionary movements of Latin America will serve to intensify the struggle against U.S. imperialist domination in Latin America," a broadcast said.

Corporation Reports Will Flood Mail With Details

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Annual reports of American corporations will bulge the mails in the next few weeks, summarizing 1966 and providing fodder for critics to use at the annual meetings to be held in March and April.

Once upon a recent time annual reports were not read. Many of those people who held stocks were wealthy enough not to care. And for those who tried, there was boredom and frustration in dissecting the archaic language.

How times have changed. Annual reports being mailed this year are multicolored, invariably well-printed, often well-written, much more informative and even educational and entertaining.

There are problems still, however. Very few people, even some businessmen, can fully appreciate the consolidated balance sheets, the income statements, changes in working capital — and especially the asterisks and the fine print.

Often the accountants are blamed for this. The overwhelming evidence, however, is that very few of the nation's 22 million stockholders make a serious effort to appreciate the intricacies of the figures as now detailed.

Figures are still the big problem of well-written annual reports.

Otherwise, the change in design and content of the annual reports is part of a welcome trend that has been under way now for several years. It will be very noticeable this year, and maybe even more so in 1968.

Basic to this trend is the tremendous increase in the number of stockholders, some of whom receive their strongest direct impression of a company from the report. It is the symbol, the personality, the image.

For a company wishing to attract and hold stockholders, image is all important today. If the firm cannot communicate its aims, its hopes, its accomplishments, its social awareness, it cannot be appreciated.

Although primarily a statement to stockholders, the annual report is increasingly written for others, too. It is sometimes the basic document used by stock researchers. For students it is sometimes their first impression of a prospective employer.

Without the figures, however, an annual report wouldn't mean much. Much effort is being used now in an attempt to clarify the financial data. But it is a very large job.

In fact, the entire area of accounting practice and communication is now being thrashed about by financial men, the Securities and Exchange Commission and certified public accountants. The question is: Do financial statements tell a true story?

The accounting craft admits that two very similar companies may have very different financial reports because of a difference in accounting practices. Admittedly also, a conglomerate company may hide big losses in one area by issuing a broad rather than detailed annual report.

In their defense, accountants maintain that it is often impossible to reduce the affairs of a complex company to the simple dollars and cents measures that a financial statement demands.

Accounting, they say, is sometimes more a subjective art than a science. It is not mechanistic, for it involves many judgments. Can any financial statement, they ask, compress the qualities of a company into a quantitative report?

Lightning Comes Under Tough Study

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
Associated Press Science Writer

EMERYVILLE, Calif. (AP) — At a laboratory here researchers tickle and tease manmade lightning to see if it misbehaves.

They want to find out how to handle 500,000 volts safely.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co., the nation's largest investor-owned gas and electric utility, is erecting more than 1,000 miles of 500,000-volt extrahigh voltage lines in Northern and central California. It will cost $185 million.

Although many firms have contributed to research on such heavy voltages, the work on such a large project is largely pioneering.

When Congress approved a vast Pacific Coast power grid complex in 1964, Elwyn Lambert, PG&E supervising electrical engineer, remarked, "There are only three lines in the nation operating at over 345,000 volts — and they are experimental.

"If we want answers to certain extrahigh voltage operating questions, we must find them for ourselves."

PG&E is finding them.

Tests over one section of the utility firm's line at a full 500,000 volts are scheduled for about March 1, with regular operations to begin around July 1. The system will be completed next year, linking the Pacific Southwest in a giant web of power production and consumption.

Electricity will flow north in the winter when the Northwest's electric heaters are turned high but generation at Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River is comparatively low. In summer, when California air conditioners and irrigation pumps are working away and the Columbia is strong with spring rains and snow melt, the power flow will be south.

Some 1,100 PG&E construction men are setting up 140-foot steel towers to support six heavy aluminum lines — a line weighs two pounds per foot — across mountains, rivers and deserts for the new system. Crews are being trained to work on the lines when they are hot with their 500,000-volt load.

Linemen wouldn't touch the 1¾-inch hot cables with a 10-foot pole — but they will with a 15-footer, a nonconducting plastic "hot stick" with attachments for making necessary adjustments and repairs.

They become so adept at using their remote control "hands" that they can remove and replace a bolt more quickly than a house handyman can at his workbench, says W. O. (Bill) Cheney, chief of PG&E's department of engineering research at Emeryville.

Kon Zaharoff, senior engineer, demonstrates some of the characteristics of the tamed lightning. While viewers stand behind a protective wire netting, Zaharoff, wearing wire-laced coveralls, walks under a double section of 500,000-volt wires. He picks up a fluorescent tube; it suddenly lights up in the highly charged air.

Eerie blue glows of corona dance over purposely roughened areas o fthe wires as electricity escapes into the atmosphere.

Zaharoff points a metallic finger near the wire netting, and a two-inch spark of electricity leaps the gap.

The power is slowly increased. The blue corona ghosts multiply, dance faster, crackle louder. They begin to spread onto the 13 big porcelain insulators supporting the wires. More power. And more. The blue glow suffuses the laboratory until—Bang! A flash over of manmade lightning ends the test at a 1.1 million volts.

The extra high voltage line, researchers have decided, should have a string of 27 insulators at each suspension point instead of 13.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Kremlin in Moscow is a great triangular citadel about 1½ miles in circumference. The walls, dating from 1492, are 12 to 15 feet thick and 30 to 50 feet high, says The World Almanac. Within the enclosure are about 40 buildings, mainly palaces, museums and cathedrals. Although the Soviet government is often referred to as the Kremlin, few government offices are located within the area.

Networks Working On Next Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As the current television season creaks along to its spring windup, the networks are building the entertainment schedules for next season.

Experts are picking over an assortment of pilot programs, short sample films and outlines hunting for new shows to replace the 20 to 30 year-end dropouts of the three networks. A few shows are set, some others are tentatively pencilled in time spots. Salesmen are looking for sponsors.

It appears that the tongue-in-cheek super-agents, the comic strip spin-offs and the nighttime serials have outlived their usefulness. Next season we will see, almost without a doubt, the return of the old-fashioned private eye and an assortment of police and special agent stories, played straight. The emphasis is on comedy for the half-hour shows, action-adventure for the hour-long series.

Success of animal series like "Daktari" and "Flipper" obviously has impressed producers. There are six more available, including two about elephant boys in India and two about game wardens with sons.

There are six or seven science fiction series available, including one about a fellow frozen in ice for 100 years who comes back into action.

There are two comedies about bigamy, one involving a man with two wives and the other about a woman with two husbands.

There is the usual assortment of westerns — seven new ones.

ABC will show film of the Clay-Terrell heavyweight fight on its Saturday afternoon "Wide World of Sports."

Jackie Gleason's Feb. 25 CBS show will celebrate his birthday — he will be 51 the next day.

Johns had presented his resignation Jan. 13 but was to remain at his duties until August, the spokesman said. Wednesday, however, the college reportedly told Jonns to leave by the end of the week.

The students, learning of the action, demanded to know the reasons behind the dismissal.

fense officials indicated that North Vietnamese action against reconnaissance flights was to be expected.

Two possibilities for a truce extension appear to be open. One is that the United States and South Vietnam could extend it for the additional three days proposed by the Communist side even without agreeing on terms and conditions with enemy representatives.

The second possibility is that some arrangement still might be made with the Communists on conditions for a much longer extension of the cease-fire.

Johnson told the Pope "I devoutly share your wish that the suspension of hostilities over the lunar new year may be extended and may open the way for negotiations for a just and stable peace.

"The governments of the United States and the Republic of Vietnam, together with others," the President continued, "are devoting intensive efforts to that end.

"As you know the government of Vietnam has twice signified its readiness to discuss an extension of the truce with representatives of the other side. We are prepared to talk at any time and place, in any forum, with the object of bringing peace to Vietnam."

It was at this point that Johnson said he knew Pope Paul would not expect the United States to cut back its military action unless the other side did so.

But the President added: "We are prepared to discuss the balanced reduction in military activity, the cessation of hostilities, or any practical arrangements which could lead to these results."

Administration officials continued to assert privately that the primary thrust of recent North Vietnam offers so far is to bring maximum pressure on the United States to stop bombing North Vietnam.

They argued that so far the North Vietnamese have said only that talks with the United States "could" start if the bombing were stopped unconditionally. They argued that North Vietnam deliberately has stopped short of saying that talks "would" start, which would amount to a proposal to which the United States would have to react.

At high levels in the administration officials insisted also that all peace probes through many foreign governments so far have failed to produce an opening for talks. But they did not rule out the possibility that the situation could change at any moment.

Conventions Are Topic For Lions

District Governor Paul Branstetter of Multiple District 26-G, International Lions Association, made his official visit to the Sedalia Lions Club at its noonday meeting Wednesday. Gov. Branstetter spoke to the Lions on membership, the coming state convention, to be held in Jefferson City June 2-3, and the International Convention in Chicago in July.

He called attention to the convention in Chicago, will be the golden anniversary of Lions International. Chicago is the home office for the organization. He told of various functions to be held at this convention which will be of great interest to every visiting Lion and delegate.

In his talk, he brought out his District at the present time, has 1,554 members in 48 clubs, a part of the Multiple District of Missouri District 26 which boasts of more than 300 clubs and a membership of more than 15,000.

Attention was called to the District 26-G cabinet meeting to be held in Sedalia at Le Roys on Sunday March 12, at which plans for the district convention, to be held June 12, will be discussed.

Gov. Branstetter was introduced by E. B Smith, his cabinet secretary and an International Counsellor.

On the program for the meeting was John Hillme, son of the Rev. and Mrs Herbert W. Hillme, 700 State Fair, winner of the local club peace essay contest. His essay has been forwarded to the district level and is among 12 from which one winner will be chose.

Hillme, a senior at Smith-Cotton High School, was introduced by program chairman Robert Shanklin. He reviewed his essay speaking on the high points of his entry, entitled "Peace Is Attainable."

Visitors at the club were Lion George Stohr from Sedalia Southwest Lions Club, and Bill Lyles, Circuit Clerk, the latter a guest of President Don King. President King presided.

itable workers and anyone under 18 years old.

It also tackled a bill to require payment of prevailing wages on all public works but opposition arose and the bill had to be laid over.

The Senate received a bill to allow dissemination of information about contraception and birth control. It was offered by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton.

One of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' major recommendations—to create a toll turnpike authority—won Senate committee approval Wednesday.

It was approved with only one amendment that would require the authority pay the costs of relocating utility lines and building grade separations.

Under the plan, the turnpike authority would consist of the state highway commission plus the governor. It would have the power to select sites, after feasibility studies, and issue revenue bonds to finance construction.

Rex M. Whitton, former chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Commission who resigned recently as head of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, said the toll road approach is the only feasible way to build high type safe roads in rural areas.

He foresaw no chance of any great increase in the present interstate system within the foreseeable future and said toll roads would free more money for use in crowded urban areas for expressways.

Two bills to raise University of Missouri and state college tuition and the tuition of out-of-state students failed to clear the Senate Education Committee.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, proposed that only the top 12½ per cent of a high school graduating class be permitted to enroll at the university and the top 40 per cent at state colleges and Lincoln University.

He said too many students who could be educated at junior colleges or vocational schools are overcrowding the colleges and M. U.

Wednesday night the capitol braced itself for an expected invasion when the House Constitutional Amendments Committee held a hearing on the school bus bill.

Two weeks ago more than 1,000 people came in a rainstorm to oppose the shared time bill and its was expected that the even more controversial school bus bill would draw an even bigger crowd.

Instead, those in favor of providing bus transportation to all school students, whether in private, parochial or public schools seemed to be almost in a majority. The hearing went off without any audience interference or participation.

The familiar garb of the Catholic clergy and nuns was in evidence.

After the usual arguments about the constitutionality of the resolution, the committee adjourned without taking action.

Rep. Charles Sheehan, D-House Springs, chairman, said he expected the committee to act next week.

If approved by both houses, the issue of whether private and parochial school students can ride public school buses will be put before the people of the state at the next election in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Moniteau Extension Officials Elected

Harold Gerhart was elected chairman of the Moniteau County University Extension Council at its organizational meeting Monday night, Feb. 6.

Other newly elected officers were: Donald Ratcliff, vice chairman, and Mrs. Hugh Alexander, secretary. Donald Strobel was reelected treasurer.

The oath of office was administered to the officers by Judge Fred Scheurer representing County Clerk, Marvin Phillips.

Following the election of officers, Bill Riley, County Extension Director, discussed duties and responsibilities of extension council members.

New Safety Rules Will Be Factors

DETROIT (AP) — Informed sources in the auto industry said today that federal auto safety requirements "most assuredly" will be among factors weighed when auto makers set prices for 1968 cars.

The sources declined to say how much of a price hike might be the direct result of the safety items.

Safety features on 1967 cars, though, raised retail prices of the vehicles by averages of $56 to $69, the auto makers have said.

The industry kept its official reaction to just two words — "no comment" — on reports that 1968 car prices should be affected only a little by the safety requirements.

The reports originated with government sources in Washington, who said next year's models should not cost much more than they would have without safety standards.

A Washington source said: "No doubt the manufacturers will make the claim that the safety requirements will force them to raise prices, but if they add on very much they're chiseling."

Industry officials complained when the first safety proposals were unveiled in November.

General Motors Corp. said the requirements could be disasterous. American Motors Corp. called them discriminatory and said they might put AMC out of business.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., warned at the time that the cost of the safety changes could wind up in the lap of the car buyer.

In the face of industry criticism, three proposed standards were dropped and the 20 standards issued last week were softened from original proposals.

The revised list of safety standards is still under review by the auto makers.

One industry source said that while safety devices will be considered at price-setting time, "There's no idea at this stage how much effect it will have."

Government sources said, however, that auto builders might be able to save the car buyer money on some items because safety standards will be engineered into cars, rather than added on.

Among other major pricing factors involved are these:

The cost of raw materials: "This might be unusually important because of indications of more price increases in the steel industry," a company spokesman said.

3,200 Bridges Will Be 'Outlined' Soon

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's narrow bridges, all 3,200 of them, are going to be outlined with reflective paint under a new safety program.

M. J. Snider, chief engineer of the State Highway Department, announced today that end posts and railings along the bridges will be painted with the reflective paint.

About 150 bridges have already been painted.

The cost of labor. This also could be especially significant because the 1.4-million-member United Auto Workers Union will begin negotiating a new contract with the industry this summer.

Dr. Powell In 'Decision' Opening Talk

Dr. Donald F. Powell, Director of International Affairs at CMSC, speaking at the opening of the "Great Decisions" series at Smith-Cotton High School Wednesday night, charted no easy course for future relations between the United States and China. But he pointed out that despite the strange behavior of China today, it has great potential and through the years to come needs to be integrated into the family of nations.

Dr. Powell assessed the present situation in China as the result of a conflict between old hard-core Communist thinkers like Mao Tse-tung and Lin Piao and a more moderate group headed by Liu Shao-Chi. In his opinion Mao is on the way out, although his ouster may not be complete for several years.

In his summary of the historical background relevant to modern China, Dr. Powell noted that the Chinese character for "China" also means "center." The Chinese regard themselves as superior and have a great fear of strangers, partly due to past humiliations.

He pointed out that the Communists can take credit for bringing a cohesiveness and national unity to China since their takeover in 1949. On the other hand, their economic policies, particularly "The Great Leap Forward" of 1958, have very nearly been disastrous.

Dr. Powell stated that China's foreign policy has largely been one of "Big talk — little do." The danger lies in the fact that her leaders don't understand that words don't make deeds. Their provocative diplomacy and unrealistic reasoning scare the world.

"If you want peace in the world you have to participate. You cannot withdraw," commented Dr. Powell. He asserted that nationalism will defeat Communism, and that the United States should work toward developing a positive type of nationalism in Asia.

His lecture was sponsored by the Sedalia Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Knights of Columbus Elect New Delegates

Monday, Feb. 6, Sedalia Council 831 of the Knights of Columbus held their regular business meeting at the K of C Hall.

A letter from State Deputy Homer L-Hote pertaining to the House resolution on the Fair Bus Bill was read to the members.

Also under business of the council those in attendance were informed of the dinner dance to be held at the Whiteman NCO Club on Feb. 11.

Delegates to the state convention were elected. These are Grand Knight, Leo Coxon, and Past Grand Knight Frank Mehl. Alternates to the delegates are John Ellington and James Keck.

Under good of the order, Fr. Vincent Youngcamp described the history of the Catholic Church in Japan and his efforts there as a missionary Priest. Out of a total population of 100,000,000 people there are only 300,000 Catholics, or one third per cent of the population. Fr. Youngkamp stated that the church in Japan is growing but due to the personalities of the Japanese, the process is slow.

The next business meeting will be held on Feb. 20 at the K of C Hall. The program will be "Crisis in Authority."

Clemons, 918 East Fifth, recently enlisted in the Navy and are presently undergoing basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Upon completion of basic training, all three men will be granted 14 days leave prior to reporting to their next duty assignment.

Nuzum Re-elected

Fred Nuzum, Business Representative of the Electrical Workers, was re-elected president of the Sedalia Federation of Labor, at its annual election of officers held Tuesday night. The meeting was held at Labor Hall.

Other officers re-elected were, Ernie Hopper, representing the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers, vice-president; Emmet Sullivan, Motion Picture Operators and Stage Hands, secretary-treasurer; Mike Chitty, Retail Clerks, Sergeant at arms.

Ernestine Miller, Garment Workers; William G. Burris and Gary Franklin, of the Railway Carmen were elected as the board of trustees.

Positions Of Countries Are Clearer

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's talks with President Johnson and other U.S. officials reportedly clarified positions of the two countries on the proposed nuclear nonproliferation treaty, but failed to eliminate their differences.

Brandt is to continue his round of talks today, meeting with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara before leaving Washington later in the day.

The United States considers the nuclear treaty of vital importance. The West Germans and other non-nuclear nations agree, but are concerned the pact would widen seriously the "technological gap" between them and the nuclear powers.

Sources said Brandt expressed this concern in the course of talks with Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high U.S. officials. Rusk, American informants said, did his utmost "to allay these apprehensions."

The treaty was only one of many issues Brandt discussed Wednesday, but sources said it became the central problem because there were no major differences on the others.

American sources said Brandt raised questions about the treaty, but did not express objections. West German informants contended, however, that Brandt voiced some reservations.

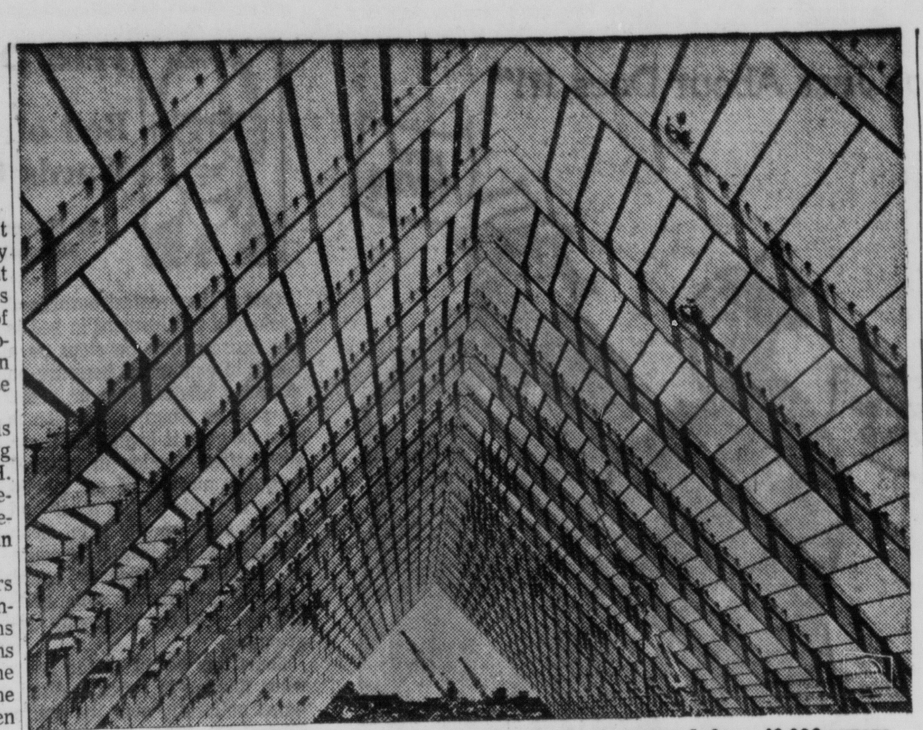

West Germany is not isolated in its concern, Brandt told reporters after his White House visit. There are about a dozen non-nuclear, industrialized nations which share Bonn's feelings, he said.

But, Brandt added, West Germany "has no intention to be the gang leader. We do not gang up on anybody."

This morning Brandt is scheduled to have breakfast with Humphrey. The two talked Wednesday and arranged the second meeting to continue their discussion.

The minister also will meet with McNamara and their discussions are expected to focus on the question of an agreement in which the West Germans have pledged to offset the foreign currency cost of keeping 225,000 American troops in Germany.

Brandt repeated Wednesday that it is Bonn's intention to comply with the present obligation before the current agreement expires June 30.

Estimates Of Loss

MADRAS (AP) — The chairman of India's railway board, G. D. Khandelwal, estimates the government-run rail lines lose $12 million in revenue annually as a result of people sneaking aboard trains and riding without tickets.

Indecisive Styles Are Introduced

NEW YORK (AP) — Styles for decidedly indecisive women were introduced Wednesday by James Galanos who waited until Paris had its say before showing his spring collection.

His models strutted in some of the world's most expensive fashion vacillations, all perfect for the woman undecided whether to act her age or her daughter's; keep hems modest or hike them high; or whether to wear skirts or the pants; be tough chic or real girl; an angel or a satan.

Organdy baby bonnets, some ruffled, some plain, tied under the chin of big dolls who wore costumes that seemed to have shrunken.

The silhouette included narrow shoulders, a fitted minibust with full bead pleats breaking at a high waistline in back, front and on the side and stopping about six inches short of the knees.

The show opened on an even higher note with hemlines at the hipline on bright jersey culotte suits with bright bands, much like high school gym suits.

Later the jersey was switched for blousey, fluttery chiffons with the same pants skirt and high hemline.

If that was not enough of a hemline choice, there were evening chiffons, short on one side, to the floor on the other; or with up-and-down handkerchief point skirts.

There were more sidewise scissoring for women unable to make up their minds whether to be sleeved or sleeveless. Models appeared in chiffons or silks with one shoulder bare, the other covered like a caftan.

Sometimes the dilemma of a high or low neckline was resolved with a turtleneck cut away at the shoulder line to expose part of the breast bone.

Continue Hunt For Fire Cause

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Fire Department officials continued their search today for the cause of a flash fire which swept through a plush penthouse restaurant Tuesday night claiming 25 lives.

Funeral services for some of the victims were held today with others scheduled Friday and Saturday.

Fire Chief W. T. Mallory said his men were still interviewing witnesses in an effort to determine the cause of the blaze at Dale's Penthouse.

Victims of the worst fire in Montgomery's history included a former member of the State Public Service Commission, Ed Pepper, and a top official of the International Teamsters Union, Sidney Zagri of Washington.

The wife of the Montgomery Advertiser's sports editor, Jack Doane, died in the flames which swept the restaurant where she was a hostess.

Employes of the fashionable dining spot, and diners who were able to escape, said the fire started in a cloakroom and spread out of control before it could be extinguished.

There was no immediate explanation for the speed with which the flames enveloped the penthouse.

Some diners and employes escaped before the elevators failed and others managed to reach the roof through windows. Firemen led them to safety after the flames were controlled.

The restaurant is located atop the 10-story Walter Bragg Smith apartment hotel in downtown Montgomery.

Gasoline Price Hikes Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline price increases by major oil companies are spreading across the country.

The boosts of one cent a gallon at service stations are unseasonal and came in the wake of rising demand and higher labor costs.

Gulf Oil Co. Wednesday became the latest company to join the price rise parade. The advance affects all of the company's outlets except in the West Coast area.

Earlier, American Oil Co., Continental Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., and Sunray Dx Oil Co. announced price boosts.

Gulf gave no reason for the increase, but a Gulf contract agreement last month set a general pattern for numerous new settlements between oil refiners and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

The general pattern included a 14-cent hourly pay hike immediately and a 4 per cent increase next January.

The wage levels were not immediately available.

Gasoline prices at this time of year normally go down instead of up. Wintry weather cuts driving and this leads to a buildup of inventories of motor fuel.

The American Petroleum Institute reported that gasoline stocks now are about 10 million barrels above inventories one year ago. But demand has been climbing. An industry source put consumption of gasoline at more than 4.6 million barrels daily, more than 4.5 per cent above a year ago.

The institute said service station prices for regular grade gasoline averaged 32½ cents a gallon last December.

Bureau of Public Roads figures show that there were 91.7 million motor vehicles registered in the United States at the end of 1965. Total motor vehicle fuel consumption for the year was 71.1 billion gallons, an average of 775 gallons per vehicle.

Of these vehicles, 76.6 million were passenger cars, which consumed 49.7 billion gallons of motor fuel, an average of 649 gallons per car.

Search For Soldiers

ROME (AP) — Italian and Soviet Red Cross people are intensifying a search for Italian soldiers officially listed as missing in the Soviet Union since World War II. One difficulty has been incorrect transcribing of Italian names in the Russian language, and to help overcome this a Soviet-Italian meeting decided to use tape recordings for phonetic detection of misspellings.

On Alcohol and Drugs . .

The most common experience in our society with mind-altering drugs is not with LSD or marijuana but the cocktail party, says Dr. Joel Fort of the San Francisco Health Department. If news headlining about drug use were consistent, it would, he says, "be more concerned about alcohol, our most pervasive drug."

About half our highway accidents and half the crimes which have put people in prison are associated with alcohol. About 80 million people use alcohol and six million of these are alcohol-dependent.

In contrast, Fort estimates that probably about one million Americans have taken LSD and marijuana. In large urban universities, however, 10 to 30 per cent of the students may experiment with LSD. Because its use is concentrated among the young, LSD is easier to condemn than alcohol.

But current laws against LSD, like earlier ones against liquor, are, believes Fort, "not only unsuccessful but misguided." They have led to a Prohibitionlike mushrooming of drug use. Another result has been that scientific research into the effects of LSD has "ground to a halt in this country."

Fort describes men like Dr. Timothy Leary, the most notable exponent of "psychedelic experience," as "Pied Pipers playing seductive tunes, being headed off at the wrong pass by several sheriffs using atomic bombs."

Laws, he thinks, should be directed against antisocial behavior (such as dangerous driving) which may arise from alcohol or drugs. As for LSD and marijuana, enforcement efforts should concentrate on the sources of supply and on producers who profit from exploiting others' weaknesses.

On the long-range basis, says the doctor, both alcohol and drugs must be treated primarily as public health and medical problems.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

There were 520 personal applications made for positions in the new Sedco Shoe factory at the Chamber of Commerce office. Each applicant was given a personal interview.

Adult Collusion?

Anthropologist Margaret Mead has definite and intriguing views on why some young folks behave the way they do.

For one thing, she believes modern parents actually reward their children for misbehaving.

"They are angry," she says, "when their daughter goes away with a man for a weekend. But if she gets into trouble, they give her a nice wedding."

Miss Mead is also of the opinion that it's ridiculous to think that dances and dress styles of today's young people indicate a change in the morals of youth alone.

"The notion that college students do things without the active collusion of adults is nonsense," she declares.

It might profit every adult reading this to pause for a moment at this point and think hard. Miss Mead just may have something.

A Poll a la Caesar

Observing that America's involvement in Viet Nam has brought a new wrinkle to warfare — the publicly debated war — the editors of Playboy magazine wonder what some of the decisive battles in history would have been like if this democratic approach had existed in the past.

A Roman scribe, for instance, might have written:

"A sharp debate has broken out among the generals, tribunes, procurators and publicans in Cisalpine Gaul as to the advisability of Gaius Julius Caesar's crossing the Rubicon. A spot poll shows:

For Crossing Rubicon — LVIII per cent
Against — XXIII per cent
Don't Know — XIX per cent

"Standing outside his purple tent surmounted by the golden eagle of Rome, Caesar read this brief statement:

" 'There is nothing sacred about the XLVIth parallel. Except for a few nervous Nullae, I think the majority of legionnaires and citizens, as shown by this spot poll here in my pocket, are behind me in the Rubicon thing. . . After all, I am merely trying to bring Pompey to the negotiating table. . . We have no personal ambitions and seek no wider conquests. Our aim is merely to give Romans everywhere a new kind of life. I call it the 'Society Maximus.' "

LBJ Briefs Business Brass on Trade

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — It's unusual that around 400 top business leaders can come to Washington for a conference with the President and the Secretary of State and not make headlines. But that's what happened last week.

Some of the most important business executives in the nation, from Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and San Francisco, arrived at the invitation of Secretary Rusk to discuss the Johnson proposal to promote trade with the European Communist nations. Ratification of the USA - USSR consular treaty is part of this over-all policy.

President Johnson greeted business leaders at a cocktail party reception in the Madison Room on the top floor of the State Department.

"My father told me never to make speeches at rodeos, country dances or cocktail parties," he said. "Despite that, I want to give you the philosophy behind my idea of improving relations between the United States and the Soviet Union."

The President then talked quite simply, but obviously from the heart, regarding his idea that if "the two big boys," as he expressed it, pull together there will be no more war. He emphasized the fact that only the United States and Russia have refined atomic weapons, and that the world has reached a point where these weapons could spread to irresponsible governments; so steps must be taken to stop this spread. He considered the treaty for the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons, now almost concluded, to be an important step in this direction.

Cracking J. Edgar Hoover

He enumerated the steps he had taken to improve relations with the European Communist world, his hope to get Russian cooperation for peace in Vietnam, and in saving the expense of a cutthroat extravagant race to build anti-missile systems.

Indirectly he took a crack at his friend J. Edgar Hoover, whom he has continued as FBI director three times beyond the statutory retirement age of 70, yet who has been undermining the President's Russian-American consular treaty.

Johnson scoffed at the idea that the treaty would permit more Soviet spies in the United States. The United States will get the same number of consulates in the USSR as Russia got in the USA, he said, and emphasized that American travelers would get better protection through these consulates.

"With 2,500 Soviets in this country," the President said, " I don't see how 25 or 30 more can be very dangerous."

Lady Bird was also at the reception and was introduced by Vice President Humphrey.

Rusk's Briefing

Earlier, in the State Department auditorium, Secretary Rusk briefed the business leaders off the record on the importance of promoting East - West trade.

There is nothing inconsistent, he said, about President Johnson's war against Communist forces in Vietnam and friendly overtures to Communist nations in Europe. The best way to end the Vietnam war, Rusk contended, was to improve relations with the Soviet bloc. Hanoi, he explained, is caught between Peking's militant anti-Western policy and Moscow's peaceful coexistence policy. East-West trade, therefore, will demonstrate that Moscow is right, and perhaps persuade Hanoi to follow the same coexistence path.

The more Communist nations that can be attracted by trade to follow the coexistence line, Rusk argued, the more impressed North Vietnam will be.

Rusk said he wasn't concerned about building up a huge volume of trade; all he hopes to do is soften the rigid U. S. attitude against doing business behind the onetime iron curtain. Tariffs on Communist goods entering this country are two or three times higher than on non-Communist goods, and Rusk said removing these barriers would have a psychological effect on the Communist world and shorten the war.

Several other State Department officials also briefed the business leaders about the importance of cooperation between the world's two giant nations. The only official who seemed slightly out of step was Dr. Eugene Rostow, former Dean of the Yale law school. He brought in the old theme about Communist aggression.

Note — Last year, after Firestone Rubber had signed an agreement with Romania to build a tire plant there, it was scared off by the Young Americans for Freedom, a right-wing Republican organization, which had been working with a Firestone competitor, Goodyear. Last month, the Young Americans for Freedom announced jubilantly that they had scared American Motors away from its plan to sell Ramblers in Russia.

The World Today

Few Peace Talk Changes During Year

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of peace in Vietnam is like a duffel bag, full of familiar things. It hasn't changed much in a year.

Here in Washington reports that the North Vietnamese might be interested in discussing an end to the war, or that some contact has been made with them, float around like gnats in the evening.

They get swatted, but the gnats keep coming. It was that way before. And now, as before, President Johnson says the North Vietnamese don't show much interest.

A year ago today Johnson and Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, South Vietnam's top man, after a conference in Honolulu issued a communique which, among other things, said the North Vietnamese had indicated no interest in peace.

For weeks before that Johnson had sent his emissaries — including Arthur J. Goldberg. U.S. ambassador to the United Nations — around the world for the expressed purpose of seeking an end to the fighting.

All came back empty-handed.

And Johnson himself, in his State of the Union message on Jan. 12 last year, reported that so far he had received no response to all the trying.

This was two days after his press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, told newsmen a U.S. representative had met with a North Vietnamese envoy and handed him a note making peace suggestions. Nothing came of it.

Now, in 1967, the administration is still saying it wishes the North Vietnamese would make a sign. So far there has been none, at least so far as the public can see.

Several days ago Goldberg announced he would visit a dozen countries, including Vietnam, on what he called a fact-finding mission, which may seem different from a peace mission, but probably isn't.

And last week the President went a long way out of his way to tell the world the United States was all for wanting peace but that the North Vietnamese wouldn't listen. He must have said the same thing a hundred times before.

But this time he made it a big project.

He took up almost the full 25 minutes of his televised news conference to repeat nine times that the North Vietnamese had given no sign of being in the market for peace.

And this was a repetition of what he said in his State of the Union message Jan 12, 1966.

Last year Moyers revealed two days before Johnson's State of the Union message that contact had been made with a North Vietnamese representative. This year another Johnson aide, this time a day after his news conference, seemed to hint a contact had been made now.

Walt Rostow, Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, said the United States and North Vietnam were now involved in "what is or might turn out to be a negotiating process" toward peace.

This was a rather stuffy way of saying the two sides were doing business in a way that might get peace talks started but he didn't build up any hopes. For he said nothing so far could be considered a serious offer by the other side.

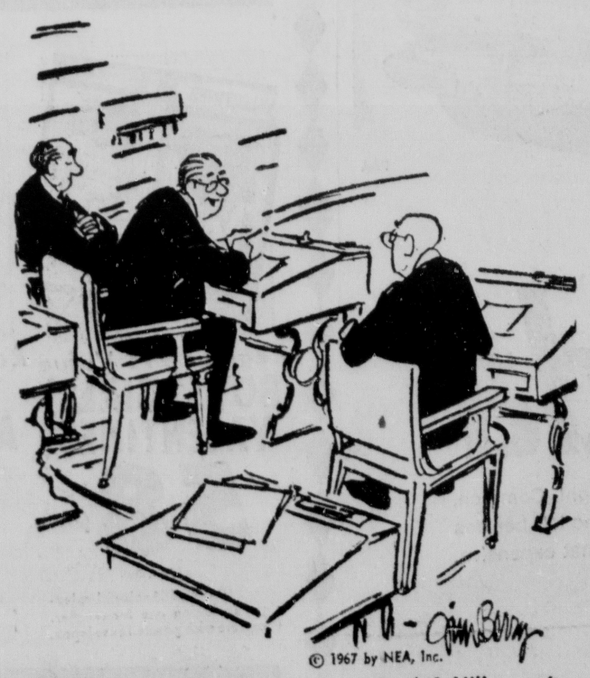

This made front pages but, when examined, it didn't seem to say any more than Johnson had said at his news conference when he said the North Vietnamese hadn't shown any hopeful sign.

As can be seen from the above, anyone seriously trying to keep track of all the peace talk from one year to the next really needs a score card, and maybe a stenographer and a file cabinet.

Card-Carrying Police

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin police, starting March 1, must hand out little blue cards identifying themselves to any persons demanding them—except "children, the clearly mentally ill and drunks." The idea grew out of demonstrators' charges of police brutality and demands for a way to positively identify cops for possible court action.

Opening lead—♠ Q

The Blackwood convention is discussed at length in "Win at Bridge with Jacoby and Son." The main feature of Blackwood is that the responses to a Blackwood four no-trump are:

Five clubs: No aces or FOUR aces.

Five diamonds: One ace.

Five hearts: Two aces.

Five spades: Three aces.

If you can't tell whether or not your partner's five-club bid is showing no aces or four aces you really shouldn't be playing bridge.

Why can't you respond five no-trump to show four aces? You can, but if you do your partner is unable to ask about kings. For instance:

South has a mighty good hand opposite an opening bid. He expects to go to game but contents himself with a 1-heart response. North jumps to four hearts and South is definitely interested in a slam and has a perfect hand for the use of a Blackwood four no - trump. He plans to settle for five if North shows two aces and to go to six if North shows three. What will he do if North shows one ace only? Look for a new and better partner is the obvious answer.

North bids five clubs to show all four aces and now South is interested in a grand slam. The key card is the king of hearts and South is able to find out about it by bidding five no-trump.

North shows that one king and South bids the grand slam in no-trump.

Why does he bid it in no-trump instead of hearts? Because he can count 13 top tricks in either contract but there is a possibility that the opening lead will be ruffed if hearts are trump. Nothing can hurt the seven no-trump contract.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Bed of New Design Wards Off Bedsores

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the greatest hazards of prolonged confinement in bed is the bedsore that develops as a result of continuous pressure on shoulder blades, hips or heels. In persons whose circulation is none too good to begin with these sores often develop in spite of frequent moving of an invalid from one side to the other and efforts to keep his skin clean and dry. If the invalid, because of impaired bladder or bowel control, involutarily soils himself the problem is greatly aggravated.

Since the weight of the body when floating in water is distributed uniformly over the entire supporting area no pressure sores would develop while the body was thus supported. With this thought in mind Drs. James D. Weinstein and Barry A. Davidson, working at the Rehabilitation Institute, Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston, devised a bed employing the principle of total flotation.

Their earliest model, although successful, had the disadvantage that it weighed 1,700 pounds. Now sure that they were on the right track, they went back to the old drawing board and came up with a water mattress that weighed less than 250 pounds.

It not only eliminated the necessity of turning the patient frequently but also made it possible to roll him out of bed instead of lifting him out. The mattress contains a foam rubber support shaped to fit general body contours, a space into which water is introduced and a plastic outer layer.

When in use, two thicknesses of woolen blanket are placed between the invalid and the mattress to prevent loss of body heat. Although this device was designed chiefly to prevent bedsores it has also been of great value in promoting healing of bedsores that have already developed.

Wipe Poochie's Feet To Save Rugs and Floors

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly

DEAR POLLY—We have a small dog and every time we would bring her in from the yard in wet weather her feet were dirty. We finally attached a holder for paper towels near the outside door and use one or two towels to clean her feet as she comes in. This has really saved my rugs and floors. —LUCILLE

DEAR POLLY—I own many dresses that button down the front and the last button always hits my knees. This one kept popping off of every dress when I stretched or sat down. To solve the problem I sewed these pesky buttons on with elastic thread and they now stay neatly in place and stretch when I do. — REDHEADED RASCAL

DEAR POLLY — My mother has a knack for finding a use for things, so naturally she thought up a way to use the pop tops from cans of soft drinks. She makes picture hangers out of them by just drilling or punching a hole in the tear drop part, then nailing it to the back of the picture or object she wants to hang. It is hung by the finger hole.—MRS. C. W. B.

DEAR POLLY—All of us do a bit of hand-washing at one time or another. I take a can from which one end has been smoothly removed, invert the can and punch several holes in the bottom. Place the article to be washed in basin or dish pan and cover with sudsy water. Holding the can in an inverted position, plunge can into water, making a vacuum-type plunger of it. Repeat the plunging process until the article is clean with perhaps extra attention given to heavily soiled parts. Some spots may have to be rubbed or brushed a bit by hand. This fast and easy way is good for drip-dry things where wrinkles are to be avoided. Use the same method for rinsing. Naturally there is a limit to the size of the aritcles that can be washed this way although when necessity demanded I once washed a chenile bedspread in the bathtub.—OPAL

GIRLS—An electric can opener removes the top so smoothly that there is no danger of tearing the garment that is to be laundered. When using other openers, check the edges of the can after the top has been removed.—POLLY

Q's and A's On Tax Matters

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I hold down two jobs and Social Security is withheld by both employers. Is there any way I can stop this withholding on one of the jobs?

A — No. The law requires each employer to withhold Social Security on the first $6,600 of wages paid to each employee during the year. If more than the maximum of $277.20 is withheld for Social Security from your combined salaries, you should claim the excess as a credit against your income tax when you file your income tax return next year.

Q — Am I taxed on the Reserve pay I get for my two week stint of military duty?

A — Yes, pay for Reserve training is generally fully taxable.

Q — If I sell my house at a profit will I be taxed on what I make?

A — Profits from the sale of a personal residence are generally taxable. Under certain conditions, however, the tax on this gain may be postponed until a later year.

This situation occurs when, for instance, you buy a new house within a year of the sale of your old home and pay more for the new house than you sold the old one for.

In addition, if you are 65 or older, all or part of the gain realized upon the sale may, if certain conditions are met, be exempt from tax. Further information on this subject may be found in Document No. 5017, Selling Your Home, available free from local IRS offices.

Q — I came into a small inheritance. Do I have to declare that as income when I file my federal income tax return?

A — No. There is no federal income tax on inheritances. There is a federal estate tax, however, which is levied on the total inheritance before it is distributed to the beneficiaries. Income from your inherited property is taxable income.

Lamb on the Menu

Now is the time to introduce or reacquaint your family with lamb — a versatile, nutritious meat with a very distinctive flavor that can be served from a variety of cuts. Prices for lamb are lowest from January to April. This year, lamb prices are expected to be slightly below those of a year ago.

Lamb comes from animals less than one year ago. Redness in bones indicate a young animal; whiteness indicates more advanced age. The color of the lean also varies with age, darkening in the older animal. . . . The characteristics of lean, fat, and bones determine the quality. Lamb of high quality has firm fine-textured lean meat colored light to dark red. The fat is firm and creamy-white, and the bones red in color, porous and comparatively soft.

Federal inspection of lamb is the shopper's assurance that the meat she buys was wholesome at the time of slaughter. This is a requirement for all lamb that is sold interstate. Lamb that has passed federal inspection is stamped with a round purple mark and the letters "U. S. Inspected and Passed."

Indicate the relative value of the meat. Grades do not pertain to its wholesomeness or its nutritive value. Government grades of lamb from high to low are: USDA Prime, USDA Choice, USDA Good, USDA Utility, and USDA Cull.

Select lamb with a cooking method and your food budget in mind. The cost of lamb varies considerably with the popularity of the cut. For the most in economy from lamb, the breast, shank and neck sections provide lamb for stews and ground lamb patties. Some of these patties have beef and pork added and may be encircled with bacon and fastened with skewers. The economical shoulder of lamb provides shoulder chops and roasts. Leg of lamb is excellent for roasting and yields the greatest amount of meat from the dressed lamb carcass. The rib section of lamb includes the rib-eye chops and can be purchased in roast form. This section of lamb is more expensive than the others mentioned. From the lion section of lamb, cuts available include lamb lion chops.

Cooking And Serving Lamb

You may be able to stretch the food dollar by selecting the less demanded and less expensive cuts, and by using recommended cooking methods.

Lamb may be cooked to the medium or well done stage. If lamb is cooked so that it is still slightly pink on the inside, there will be less shrinkage and the meat will be jucier than if it is well-done.

Lamb that is cooked by the moist heat method should be simmered rather than vigorously boiled. Avoid overcooking lamb as this will shrink the meat, make it dry and difficult to cut.

Boil chops about 2 to 3 inches from the heat, for about 12 to 15 minutes. Pan-boiling of chops requires about one-half the time of broiling and this will depend upon the thickness of the chops.

Since lamb fat hardens at a higher temperature than most meat fats, serve lamb either hot or cold, but not LUKE warm.

Children form eating habits at a very early age. If lamb is served with cold milk, the fat may solidify in their mouths. This fact might cause a dislike for lamb. Serve hot chocolate or warm milk in its place.

When serving cold lamb for sandwiches, trim off the excess fat and it may increase your family's preference for left over lamb.

Leg of lamb retains its shape, cooks in less time and is juicier when the fell (a thin paperlike tasteless membrane or skin covering) is left on the roast during cooking.

The purple marketing fluid used on the federal inspection mark is a harmless dye and need not be trimmed off until AFTER cooking. The reason for doing this may be for its appearance.

Lamb sprinkled with mint, rosemary, or basil, adds a change of flavor. Currant or mint jelly served with lamb is very popular.

Small amounts of catsup, vinegar, mustard, or sour cream will add a zestful flavor to lamb. Always remove any excess fat when making lamb gravy.

Buying Bananas

Supply of bananas is uniform all year 'round. Price is usually steady, except when stores offer them as a "special." For best flavor and quality, bananas are picked green; ripened under carefully controlled temperature and humidity. Even the "banana boats" are especially designed for shipping the green fruit.

Bananas should be plump, free from bruises and decay. When skin is solid yellow or slightly flecked with brown, they're ready for eating. If tips are green, the rest pale yellow —full flavor has not yet developed, but they're fine for frying, baking or broiling.

Overripe bananas with very brown flecked skins are excellent for breads, muffins, cakes.

Bananas that are not fully ripe should be held at room temperature until ready for use. Refrigerate only after they have reached the desired stage of ripeness. Refrigeration darkens the skin color, but does not affect the eating quality—providing the fruit is fully ripe.

Cooking Dry Beans

To get your money's worth in dry beans and peas, save all possible vitamins and minerals in cooking. Because some of these nutrients are soluble in water, use only the amount of water the beans can absorb and cook in the same water in which they are soaked. (Split peas and lentils may be boiled or pressure cooked without being soaked.) To cut cooking time and vitamin loss, boil the beans for two miuntes, remove from the heat. Soak them for one hour. They are then ready to cook. Cooking time can be shortened by about one-fourth the total time by adding 1/8 teaspoon of baking soda to the soaking water for EACH CUP of dry beans that you use. Even if soaking overnight fits your plans better, it is still an advantage to start with the two minute boil because there will be fewer hard skins. The brief boil will also keep them from souring if soaked in a warm room.

The addition of fat to the cooking water does cut down on the amount of foam that develops during cooking. Rapid boiling and frequent stirring does cause the skins to break, so handle with care. If you plan to add tomatoes, catsup or vinegar to your beans, wait until they are cooked to the almost tender stage. The addition of acids early in the cooking will delay the softening of the beans.

Garden Club Studies Dwarf Fruit Trees

Miss Ruth Pfaff, Green Ridge, was hostess to the Green Ridge Garden Club on Feb. 3 at her home. Mrs. J. M. Palmer and Mrs. Glenda Inselman were assisting hostesses.

Wendall Roberts, Vocational Agriculture Instructor of the Green Ridge R-8 School was the guest speaker. He gave a talk on "Dwarf Fruit Trees", and gave the varieties recommended for the state of Missouri by the University of Missouri Extension Division.

Mrs. Palmer, president, was in charge of the business session and she told of the various requirements of a Purple Ribbon Garden Club. After discussion, the members voted to try for a Purple Ribbon for their club for 1967.

Mrs. Ethel Sims, treasurer, reported that she mailed the $32 from the Green Ridge Club to Hazel L. Knapp, chairman of the Missouri Botanical Garden Library Fund.

The hostesses served refreshments at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mrs. W. L. Whittall will be the March hostess and Mrs. John Lewis, Sedalia, will be the guest speaker.

Goalie Sent Into Hiding From Refuse

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Goalie Bernie Parent cowered in the Boston net while a shower of beer cans rained down on the Madison Square Garden ice.

He was luckier than Toronto's Coach Punch Imlach and Montreal's Coach Toe Blake, both of whom had no place to hide as their clubs absorbed painful National Hockey League defeats Wednesday night.

Parent and the fore-checking Bruins halted a five-game slide with a 2-1 victory over New York but not before a deluge of refuse in the final minute left the Garden ice looking like Broadway on New Year's morning.

Meanwhile, Imlach's Leafs were stunned by Norm Ullman's three-goal hat trick in just over three minutes and dropped their 10th straight, 5-2 to Detroit. The loss cost Toronto fourth place as Detroit moved one point in front in the race for the final playoff berth.

Blake alternated goalies in the first period, fell three goals behind against Chicago's rampaging Black Hawks and finally lost 5-0 as Bobby Hull scored two goals and Denis DeJordy turned in his second straight shutout.

The victory opened a 12-point lead for the first place Hawks, apparently on their way to their first NHL regular season title ever. Hull's goals gave him 34 for the season.

The Ranger-Bruin game was a neat, close-checking affair until the final minute when the Ranger bench and the crowd of 13,123 exploded after referee John Ashley apparently failed to notice an extra Boston player on the ice — an infraction that ordinarily calls for a two-minute penalty.

Beer cans, apparently brought into the arena hidden under coats, poured down on the ice and Parent sought refuge in his net.

Stover Has Evened Up With Iberia

Stover had its revenge on Iberia, Tuesday night, with a 74-61 victory. Earlier in the season, when these two teams met in the finals of the Stover Invitational Basketball Tournament, Iberia walked away with that game by the score of 55-25, so the victory Tuesday night helped to ease the pain from the first loss.

Stover got off to a commanding lead in the first quarter as they fired in 23 points, while holding Iberia to just nine points. In the second period Iberia cut into that first quarter lead as they outscored Stover, 21-17, but still trailed at the half, 40-30. The third quarter was a fairly even battle as Stover coming away with a two more points then Iberia, 20-18, making the score 60-47. The final period Stover scored 14 points to Iberia's 13.

Rowland was the high scorer for Stover with 18 points. High scorer for Iberia were Shreve and Wright each with 14 points.

Stover won the B game by the score of 30-29. High scorer for Stover was Eddings with 13. High for Iberia was Benton with 14.

The next game for Stover will Friday night when they play Lincoln in a conference contest.

Score by quarters:

Stover	23	17	20	14	—74
Iberia	9	21	18	13	—61

Funseth Is In Running Once Again

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Rod Funseth, who registered his only tour win here in 1965, served notice he's in the running again as first-round play got under way today in the $70,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Funseth, who says he is not palying good golf, carded a three-under-par 68 in Wednesday's pro-am warm-up over the 6,459-yard Arizona Country Club course and was one of the few pros who weren't critical of the hard and fast greens.

He birdied six holes, carded three bogeys and had three three-putt holes. The win was worth $250 for Funseth.

"Boy, they're going to have to do something with those greens," said Dan Sikes, who failed to register his score in the pro-am event.

Sun and wind in recent weeks have dried the fairways, usually a good sign the added distance expected on fairway shots will leave short and relatively easy approach shots.

It wasn't so Wednesday, as approaches raced across greens into the fringes and traps.

Al Geiberger, defending PGA champ, said the green play was inconsistent and should put the winning score in the neighborhood of 275 or better.

"I wasn't able to lag a putt all day," said Geiberger, who three-putted six holes, registering a 73.

Ken Still, who carded a 73, said, "Complain? Who'll complain when they put up $70,000?"

Dudley Wysong, defending titlist from McKenney, Tex., was one of 11 golfers bunched at 72.

Billy Casper, who fired a two-under 69 Wednesday and Gene Littler and Doug Sanders, with 75 and 73, are rated the favorites for the $14,000 top money.

Mantilla Is Signed As A Free Agent

CHICAGO (AP) — Felix Mantilla, 11-year major league infielder, was signed as a free agent today by the Chicago Cubs.

The signing of Mantilla, 32, who was on the Houston Astro disabled list with a left shoulder injury most of last season, raised the Cub roster to its full 40-player complement.

A right-handed hitter who can play outfield as well as all infield positions, Mantilla is tabbed for a pinch-hitting and utility role with the Cubs.

Houston Board Has Clay's Draft Case

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Selective Service Appeal Board has heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's draft deferment case but has taken no action.

The records were transferred to Houston from Clay's local board in Louisville, Ky.

Clay, who successfully defended his title against Ernie Terrell Monday night in the Astrodome, has been seeking exemption from the draft on grounds he is a Black Muslim minister.

JIM PALMER, right, 21-year-old pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, has one big claim to fame. Palmer beat Sandy Koufax, left, the Dodger great, in Sandy's last official appearance as a major league pitcher in the second game of the 1966 World Series.

Drake Losing Out

Ill Fortune Seeks Out A Team In Conference Play

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Drake's college basketball team used to be known as Destiny's Darlings a few seasons back. Now ill fortune is the lot of the Bulldogs in the tough Missouri Valley Conference.

They had the nationally third-ranked Louisville Cardinals on the ropes with a 10-point lead in the second half Wednesday night but couldn't hold it and went down to defeat 57-54.

The victory made Louisville's conference leading record 8-1 and upped the Cardinals' over-all mark to 19-2, but as Coach Peck Hickman said after the game at Des Moines, "we were lucky."

The turning point came in the closing minutes with Louisville ahead 55-54.

"We had a play set up," said Maury John, the Drake coach. "Erwin Cox was supposed to lob a pass into Bob Netolicky, but it went wild. A basket then would have given us a one-point lead and put some pressure on Louisville.

"They got a break at the right time, but we shot 55 per cent and could have won. I guess it just wasn't in the books, though."

Wichita knocked Cincinnati, the defending champs, out of contention in the MVC with a last minute 57-55 victory while Sorth Texas whipped St. Louis 77-73 in another MVC game.

Once-beaten Boston College and Providence, the only other teams in The Associated Press Top Ten to play, each won.

Boston College, No. 10, won its seventh straight and made its record 13-1 by beating the St. Joseph Hawks 83-69 at Philadelphia behind Steve Adelman's 27 points. Ninth-ranked Providence, led by Jim Walker's 35 points scored an 89-71 home court triumph over Fairfield. The Friars now are 15-3.

Playing on the road, Cincinnati led Wichita 55-53 with 30 seconds left. Then Lillard Harris tied the score and Melvin Reed scored the winning basket for the Wheatshockers on a layup in the final seconds.

Bill Cutter's 20-foot jump and 2 free throws by Hamp Hazelton in the last five seconds broke a 73-73 tie and gave North Texas its victory over St. Louis at Denton.

Bob Verga's 28 points, 15 of them in the second half, paced the Duke Blue Devils over North Carolina State 69-65 at Raleigh. At Syracuse, Rick Dean's two free throws with 11 seconds to go gave the Orange a 67-65 squeaker over Niagara for its ninth straight victory.

Glen Combs threw in 30 points to lead Virginia Tech over the visiting Ohio University Bobcats 87-47 while Marquette withstood a late Chicago Loyola rally to edge the Ramblers 81-80 at Milwaukee.

Two key baskets by Fred Fosters led Miami of Ohio to a 75-68 road triumph over Bowling Green in double overtime. Don May's 28 points sparked Dayton over Xavier of Ohio at Dayton while Florida dzfeated Miami, Fla., 73-57 at Gainesville.

In home court victories, Temple beat LaSalle 79-65, Detroit took Canisius 84-64, St. Peter's of New Jersey nipped NYU 69-68 on Ken Grant's last second basket and Oklahoma City crushed West Texas 107-75.

On the road, Toledo humbled Western Michigan 86-76, Marshall downed Kent 65-61, Auburn whipped Louisiana State 80-64, DePaul defeated Notre Dame 56-49 and Colgate conquered Lafayette 75-62.

Louisville Tops Among MVC Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Louisville held first place in the Missouri Valley basketball race Wednesday night, but only after last-place Drake tossed a scare into the boys from the Bluegrass state.

Louisville, ranked No. 3 in the nation in the AP poll, had a tough time gaining a 57-54 victory. Drake held a 33-28 lead at the half and increased it to 39-29 with 3:30 gone in the second half. Louisville finally went ahead at 50-49 with about eight minutes left.

Drake regained the lead several times; but with 3:25 to go, Louisville went ahead 55-54 and went into a stall.

Westley Unseld of Louisville scored 23 points but Butch Beard, Louisville's leading scorer, was held to 13 points. Erwin Cox was high for Drake.

Louisville is 8-1 in the league and 19-2 over-all. Drake is 2-7 and 6-13.

Second-place Tulsa, 5-1, was idle but meets Bradley, 3-5, at Peoria tonight in the only Valley game. Tulsa will be trying to break a jinx at Peoria, where it has won only once—11 years ago. Tulsa completes a vital road trip Saturday at St. Louis.

Joe Swank, coach of the surprising Tulsa team, has said:

"This team is as well prepared mentally, is dedicated and as poised as any I've coached at Tulsa."

Wichita, in third place at 6-2, defeated defending champion Cincinnati 57-55. The loss dropped Cincinnati from fourth to sixth place with a league mark of 4-5. Wichita won in the final 30 seconds. Lillard Harris, who entered the game in the final three minutes, scored the field goal that tied the score at 55-55; and Melvin Reed took a handoff from Warren Armstrong in the final seconds and made the winning layup shot.

Wichita is 11-8 over-all, Cincinnati 14-6.

North Texas beat St. Louis 77-73 after trailing by as much as 15 points in the first half. St. Louis led at the half 34-27, but North Texas caught up after intermission at 35-35 with 18:43 to play.

The score was tied 11 times in the final 13 minutes. A 20-foot jump shot by Bill Cutter with five seconds left and two free throws in the last second by Hamp Hazelton provided the margin of victory.

Self-Analysis

Belinsky Lacks Champion Drive

HOUSTON Tex. (AP) — Robert (Bo) Belinsky says he is not one of those guys who thinks of nothing else but playing baseball.

"I want to play baseball, but I don't have the true desire for a great champion," the colorful, dark-haried playboy left-hander said in his first Houston appearance after being drafted Nov. 28 by the Astros.

"Some people see me as if baseball is my shield, my courage, my true life. It isn't true. There are better things. It's fun and I use it as fun. . ."

He admitted there was a time when he was more serious about the game.

"I was most serious in 1964," he said. "And I got kicked in the seat of the pants. I got taken out of action when I was having my best year. This took a little something out of me . . . My desire for baseball."

He referred to his celebrated slugging of a Los Angeles sports writer in August of that year.

He was 9-8 with the Los Angeles Angels at the time with a 2.87 earned run average but he was suspended for the remainder of the season by Manager Bill Rigney.

The 30-year-old bachelor, who threw a no-hitter in 1962, laughed and joked about baseball, but he admitted he was happy for another chance in the major leagues.

He said he felt he would have a good year with Houston, but "age, wear and tear" are against him having a great year.

"I'd say just hanging around the whole season would be a good year for me because this is a young ball club and there aren't going to be any standbys," he said.

Belinsky will be one of 33 Astro pitchers and catchers reporting Friday to Cocoa, Fla., for the start of spring training.

Plans call for Belinsky to work as long relief man in the bullpen, with the promise he will get a starting chance should one of the young pitchers falter.

Another player not so happy today is Joe Moeller of the Los Angeles Dodgers. The right-handed pitcher is suffering from a badly sprained right knee suffered last Friday in a small fire at his home. The injury will force him to miss two upcoming practice games in California.

Another Dodger hurler, reliever Phil Regan, signed his 1967 contract Wednesday. Regan, 14-1 last season, received a reported $5,000 raise, giving him an estimated salary of $23,000.

Dick McAuliffe of Detroit signed for a reported $4,000 increase to about $25,000. McAuliffe, the American League's All-Star shortstop the past two seasons, hit .274 last year. This year he will move from shortstop to second base.

Other players who signed include first baseman Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets, outfielder George Altman of the Chicago Cubs and five California Angel pitchers — Lou Burdette, Marcelino Lopez, Fred Newman, George Brunet and Jack Sanford.

Lakers Still Very Much In A Race

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Well, it's not over in the National Basketball Association's Western Division race as far as the Los Angeles Lakers are concerned, despite San Francisco's bulging lead.

Jerry West, a native of Cabin Creek, W.Va., and an All-America at West Virginia University, came back to his boyhood haunts Wednesday night with a 40-point performance as the Lakers whipped the Baltimore Bullets 121-108.

In other games, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 118-106 and New York edged Chicago 106-103.

"No sir, the race in the West isn't over yet," said Lakers' Coach Fred Schaus after the game. "We got a slow start — a very slow start — because of injuries. And there are enough games left to turn it, if San Francisco should have a couple of injuries, particularly to (Nate) Thurmond."

After a frigid start before the 5,028 fans who wanted to see West score big, the Lakers found the range near the end of the first period. West was scoreless for the first eight minutes of the game but the Lakers moved to the front at the end of the first stanza and pretty much controlled the game the rest of the way.

Old pro Elgin Baylor chipped in with 20 points and former UCLA All-America Gail Goodrich tossed in 11 in the few minutes he played in the final period. Muscular Tom Hawkins turned in a good showing, as did tall Mel Counts, who was acquired in that controversial three-way trade with Detroit and Baltimore.

Philadelphia posted its fourth straight victory while handing the Royals their fifth consecutive defeat. Wilt Chamberlain led the 76ers in the game at Cincinnati. He scored 27 points, grabbed 24 rebounds and handed out 13 assists. Chet Walker scored 31 points for Philadelphia and Hal Greer added 28.

Dick Barnett exploded for 17 points in the third quarter, rallying New York from a 54-46 halftime deficit to a 92-79 lead after three quarters. The Knicks, however, needed two free throws from Emmette Bryant with two seconds left to clinch the victory at Evansville, Ind.

Large Field Of Drivers In Drag Race

One of the largest fields of drivers to participate in the drag races appeared at Rev-Rac Slot Center Tuesday night for the weekly event. Every driver worked diligently up to the last minute, changing gears, tires and techniques making sure he and his car were tuned and ready for that third light when it came on for his "drag."

One of the most interesting drags for the evening occurred between a father and son Chick McCown shoved his son, Merlyn, he wasn't going to relax a minute for him. Although the son won, Chick made it a good drag. The tightest and most tense moment of the evening, no doubt, was the time for the last two eliminators when everyone in the slot center seemed to stop until the third drag was completed and the "top eliminator" was decided.

Merlyn McCown won the top eliminator position, driving a Model T Ford. He edged out Marvin Nicholson only by inches in the best two out of three drags.

Place winners in the Class A drags were First, Merlyn McCown; Second, Marvin Nicholson; and Third Chick McCown.

Class B winners were First, Kenneth Hall; Second, Park Denny; and Third, Mike Green.

Bud Abney and Bill Utz, last week's A and B Class winners were unable to defend their titles because Bill is racing this week in Tampa, Fla., at the Winter Sprint Car races.

Merger Or Not

Two Players Are Not Giving Up Yet

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football merger might have ended the raiding war, but at least two players, Mike Ditka and Roman Gabriel, were not yet ready today to surrender.

Ditka, one of the top tight ends in he National Football League with the Chicago Bears, and Gabriel, starting quarterback with the NFL's Los Angeles Rams, are considering jumping to American League clubs if the money is right.

"I've got a valid three-year contract with Houston (of the AFL)," Ditka said. "I won't say for how much, but they gave me a $50,000 bonus to play out my option with the Bears last season. I keep that no matter what. It's in the bank."

But the six-year veteran who has twice made all-NFL did leave a way out of the fray.

"The Houston people have said they will forget about it to keep peace if the Bears give me the same contract I have with the Oilers," Ditka said.

"The big problem on the Bears is a matter of communication between the players and the coaches. This situation never would have come about if Halas (Chicago owner and coach George Halas) had listened reasonably."

He accused Halas of "trying to pay players with salaries of the 1940s and 1950s."

Gabriel, who reportedly signed with the Oakland Raiders of the AFL for 1967, was quoted by sports editor George Ross of the Oakland Tribune as saying:

"I am laying back to see what is going to happen. It's more or less up to me at this point."

A Raider spokesman said Oakland "feels an obligation to Roman and we feel we are obligated to uphold our end of the contract."

After the Raiders announced the signing of Gabriel, the Rams said he had signed a 1966 contract with them apparently with an option on his services in 1967.

Gabriel and Ditka apparently negotiated with the AFL teams before the merger last summer. At the time of the merger, it was agreed there would be no trades between leagues until 1970 when the merger goes into effect.

Before that when players completed their options and moved to another team, the league commissioners worked out a transaction in which the old team got a satisfactory return.

No such case has been brought before Commissioner Pete Rozelle since the merger. A spokesman for the NFL said no case would reach Rozelle until the club or player involved requested a ruling.

Ditka, whose contract with Chicago runs out May 1, said he expected his case to be discussed at the AFL meetings beginning Monday in Miami Beach, Fla., and a week later at the NFL meetings in Honolulu.

Carson Will Not Imitate Ex-Mentor

ATLANTA (AP) — Bud Carson, the 36-year-old surprise contender for the Georgia Tech coaching job, says if he is hired he won't try to imitate Bobby Dodd.

"I couldn't win coaching like Coach Dodd did," the Tech defensive coach said in an interview Wednesday. "Nobody could. Coach Dodd is the last of his breed."

Carson, who built Tech's defense into a stingy unit last fall, admitted he probably would work his football players harder than they were drilled by Dodd, widely known for his casual approach to coaching.

"I'm different than Coach Dodd, and if I get the job I wouldn't try to coach like he did, although I think he is the greatest of all coaches to work under.

"There are lessons to be learned under Coach Dodd that you couldn't learn anywhere else," said Carson. "There is not a better man to train a head coach, and that is why so many of his people become head coaches.

"He gives you better leadership than anyone, and I think I have worked under some of the best in the past."

Carson, who joined the Tech staff only a year ago, broke into college coaching at North Carolina under the late Jim Tatum, and he also worked for Jim Hickey at North Carolina.

Carson left there in 1965 to go to South Carolina as head defensive coach, and was hired away by Dodd after a year.

Dodd, who recommended Carson for head coaching jobs this winter, stepped down Monday after 22 years as head coach, and he lists Carson as a top contender to replace him.

"Carson has the advantage of knowing the players and knowing our staff," said Dodd, who as athletic director is in charge of the search for the fourth football coach in Georgia Tech's history.

Dodd said Charlie Tate, Miami coach who once was an assistant at Tech, also is a contender but he added that "we are reluctant about approaching anyone who has a contract."

Oppose Bid To Use Money For Hockey

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Opposition was voiced Wednesday to a proposal to use $300,000 in bond funds to equip the Municipal Auditorium for professional ice hockey.

The City Council has before it an ordinance to approve a five-year lease with the Kansas City Hockey Club. An estimated $70,000 a year in revenue from hockey games would revert to the city.

George A. Gasper told a council hearing that the advisory board of the Southeast Community Council had unanimously adopted a resolution against taking bond funds voted for park and recreation projects.

"We don't like the shifting of funds. It reminds me of country bookkeeping," Gasper said.

Dorman H. O'Leary, chairman of the advisory trustees of the Citizens Bond Committee, said some trustees would look askance at allocating the bonds for ice-making equipment. The bonds were voted in 1954.

The advisory trustees are charged with seeing that bond funds are used within the categories authorized by the voters.

Representatives of the Central Linwood Community Center and the Southeast Community Council said they also object to possible interference with construction of community centers.

John Antonello, director of the auditorium, said there would not be much question of being able to work in dates for ice hockey. He said there are 80 to 90 open dates a year at the arena.

E. L. Pavel, executive director of the Convention and Tourist Council, said most conventions are booked into the auditorium about three years in advance, leaving ample leeway for incorporating a hockey schedule.

Billy Welu Holds Big 36-Pin Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Billy Welu, the 6-5, 220 pound bowler from St. Louis, built a 36-pin lead through two rounds Wednesday in the Professional Bowlers Association $50,000 Brut Open.

Welu opened by averaging 252 as he totaled 1,516 for the first six games. He came back in the night session with 1,333 to close out the first 12 games with 2,849, averaging 237.

Walt Pych of Youngstown, Ohio, was second with 2,813.

Tim Harahan of Encino, Calif., drilled 12 strikes into the pocket in the afternoon session for a perfect 300 game. It was the first 300 for the 21-year-old Harahan in his two-year career on the PBA tour.

The field of 128 bowls six more games Thursday before the cut to 64. Another six games then cuts the field to 16 for Friday's match play semifinals and the high five from this group qualifies for Saturday's finals.

The top ten after two rounds (12 games).

Billy Welu, St. Louis, 2,849; Walt Pych, Youngstown, Ohio, 2,728; Dave Soutar, Detroit, 2,726; Dick Weber, St. Louis, 2,718; John Chapman, Kansas City, 2,717; Tim Harahan, Encino, Calif., 2,712; Virg Enger, Minneapolis, 2,702; Billy Hardwick, Louisville, 2,699.

Overly Neat People Are A Problem To Most Of Us

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is having to cope with overly neat people.

You know the kind I mean:

If you give them a pigeon, they already have a pigeonhole waiting to put it into.

If you invite them into your home, the first thing they do is surreptitiously wipe their fingers on your cocktail table to see if your wife has dusted it lately.

If the first robin of spring alights outside their window, they shoo it away for fear it will ruin the perfection of their lawn by digging for worms.

Life for the overly neat person is a package deal, neatly wrapped and tied. His motto is, "A place for everything, and everything in its place."

This philosophy has a nice, high-sounding ring to it — but the ring is hollow. If there is a place for everything, and everything is in its place, you've got a static universe and a dead world. It is a perfect description of a cemetery.

The trouble with neat people is that they aren't satisfied with merely having all their own things in their proper places. They feel a divine mission to come over to your place and put everything there in its right place. They demand that you be like them.

And there is only one defense possible for an untidy person when one of these unctuous reformers tries to mold your life into his own pallid, polished pattern. Look him squarely in the eye — and then spit in it.

The trouble with the overly neat person is that, basically, he was born into the wrong world. He hates surprise and change. He would like always to be carrying an umbrella when it rains and be wearing overshoes when it snows. Year-round, if he had his way, thed sun would come up at the same time every morning and set at the same time every evening.

Unfortunately, the world isn't like that. The world is a lovely wilderness of welter and wonder, full of blind alleys and tremendous vistas, of flowers and thorns and bears and butterflies, of wasps and hidden honey, of poisonous plants and helpful herbs, of stinging thistles and ripening fruit.

Nature isn't at all overly neat. In nature everything — even the rocks that crack in winter — is in movement, trying to go from one place to another. Even the celestial spheres vary in their orbits. They hate too much order, too.

As a chronically untidy man myself, I hope that heaven for me will turn out to be as disorderly as the desk I keep. I hope it will turn out to be a junkpile a million miles wide and ten thousand miles high, where I can spend eternity cheerfully pawing through the debris in search of souvenirs.

That, of course, would be a hell to the overly tidy person. He aspires to a heaven that, like his life, is as planned as a cellblock.

Life does need some planning. But a life too planned can become an unplanned death.
